Christmas film at First Baptist Church Sunday evening

The Rev. Everett F. Reed has extended an invitation to all to view the award winning film, "Truce in the Forest," which is to be shown on Sunday evening, December 23 at six o'clock. "Truce in the Forest" is about a Christmas eve and the rumble of artillery fire from the "Battle of the Bulge" echoes throughout a snow covered forest.

Two groups of young soldiers, Germans and Americans, all tired and lost, seek food and shelter at the same cabin. Gerta Braun, the German haus frau, persuades all the soldiers to lay down their weapons in honor of the Savior's birth. The cottage becomes an island of peace amid the chaos of war as the strangers experience an incredible "truce" for Christmas. They share the true meaning of "peace on earth, good will to men!" This unforgettable human drama is based on a true story from Reader's Digest.

The film is being shown at the First Baptist Church, 173 Church St., Wilmington and there is no admission charge.

New subdivisions in the works

It was just like the old days in the Wilmington Planning Board meeting of December 18. Subdivision plans, and more subdivision plans. There hasn't been a night like that for about five years.

The Jackson Brothers, who possibly have submitted more plans for housing subdivisions than anyone else in Wilmington were present for a hearing on a subdivision off Nichols Street and adjacent to the Tewksbury line. Being called Oakland Park, the area is a place that was a subdivision, planned but never built, back about 1903, and has been scrub land for many years. What was originally Fourth Street is to become Flagstaff Road, and the lots of land are in the 20,000 square foot class.

There were no objections.

The Garden of Eden, once a golf course on Chestnut Street, and later the site for a church group, is now being purchased by Joseph A. Langone of Wilmington. A plan, for the Duffer Realty Trust was submitted, showing 45.2 acres.

The Garden of Eden in recent years has been the property of Dr. Edward C. Jacobs of Los Angeles. The golf course was so named about 30 years ago by the late Millard Pipes, after a story which had appeared in this paper about the early life on what is now Mill Road in Wilmington.

No sub-division plans were submitted.

Also submitted by Langone was a (pre) preliminary plan for land which was the old Duffy farm, off Aldrich Road. A street, to be called Tomahawk Drive is being planned, with 14 houselots. On the land is the site of the original Jaquith house in Wilmington, dating back to 1665.

The planning board reduced the bond for the Middlesex Pines housing development in North Wilmington. There was formerly a surety bond of $45,000. It is now a bond for $35,000. The value of the bond was reduced because of the progress achieved in street construction and other engineering.

Two additional plans were discussed with the town engineer, but no decision is to be made for several weeks.

A parking plan was submitted for land at the corner of Birch Street and Lowell Street (across from Avco), where a real estate office is located. The parking plan shows an additional building which is presumably a garage, with an apartment in the second floor.

An additional parking plan was submitted for the north end of the Wilmington Plaza (DeMoulas), where it is proposed to erect a new building for the Arlington Bank. The bank will need an additional 10 parking spaces, the town engineer told the board.

The planning board will not meet again until January.

Holiday concert

The holiday season always has several school concerts. On Tuesday night, the intermediate school students performed in Barrows Auditorium at Wilmington High School. The girls above are members of the combined intermediate chorus.

These trumpet players were in the Wildwood School concert Tuesday afternoon.

Band delivers a special gift of music

For many people in Wilmington, Dominic DiGrazia is a part of the spirit of Christmas. Mr. DiGrazia was a music teacher for many years in the Wilmington school system. Besides his musical talent, he had a gift of teaching. One parent described it as letting a student believe he was good, while the student was, well, improving.

Besides, anyone who has the patience to work with a large group of elementary school children to produce a Christmas show every year — always very good — has got to have something special.

Dom DeGrazia retired last year, and has been having some health problems. To say that he is missed in Wilmington is a gross understatement.

On Monday night, several members of the Wilmington High School Band traveled to Lexington to play for the man who had taught them so much about music.

Mrs. DiGrazia was in on the plan, and she opened his bedroom window at the appropriate time. Down the street came the band, playing Christmas music. It was a total surprise for Mr. DiGrazia.

There wasn't a dry eye among anyone who was there — students, teachers, parents, and certainly not Mr. or Mrs. DiGrazia.

Consultant wanted for hiring superintendent

by Arlene Surprenant

In a lengthy meeting held last Wednesday, the school committee discussed filling two important positions: one the school superintendency and the other of high school guidance head.

Members decided to look into the cost of a consultant to help in the screening process of superintendent applicants and to take up the issue of guidance department head during budget talks.

The idea of hiring a consultant to help process the expected high number of applicants and to prepare a spreadsheet was brought up by John Brooks. Chairman Bridget Zukas concurred with the suggestion, largely because of time constraints and the amount of work involved.

According to Assistant Superintendent Robert Horan, a consultant could cost anywhere from $1,500 to $5,500, a cost Tony Accardi found too high for what he claims amounts to a clerical assistant. He asked that both positions be clarified so money isn't spent unnecessarily.

Linda McMenimen felt a consultant wouldn't be needed as she, for one, would like to be in on the process from the very beginning.

Other suggestions were made to facilitate the procedure of hiring a new superintendent.

Bob Peterson suggested sending a letter home to invite residents to an open meeting held prior to the selection process. He also initiated the formation of a sub-committee to bring back ideas on the preliminary screening at the next meeting.

Accardi pointed to the need for more input from local citizens. He suggested setting up advisory groups consisting of parents and other citizens. He suggested getting up advisory groups consisting of parents and other taxpayers, principals and directors, and faculty members. These groups, working independently, could come up with certain viewpoints and guidelines and funnel information on their needs in a new superintendent back to the school committee.

Zukas said a file of all applications would be kept in the central office in the Roman House and be available to each member of the school committee after the holidays. Applications for the superintendent's position must be by the end of February.

Holiday schedule

During the holiday period, the Town Crier will publish — as usual — on Wednesday each week. Because of the Tuesday holidays, however, there will be early deadlines. Display advertising and news must be submitted by 5 p.m. Friday. All classified ads must be in the office by 10 a.m. Monday, Dec. 24 or Dec. 31.

Happy Holidays

The Town Hall offices at 121 Glen Road, Wilmington, will be closed Monday, December 24 and Tuesday December 25, 1984.

Music teacher

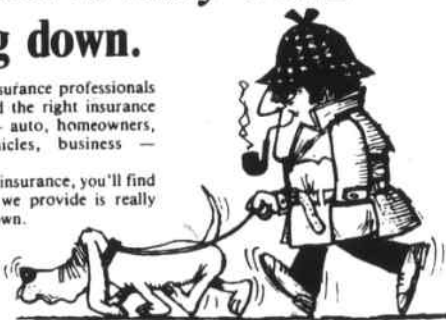

Elementary music teacher Lorraine Kalil was honored by her colleagues in the Wilmington Performing and Fine Arts Dept. at a dinner in November for her 30 years of service in the Wilmington schools. She has taught and supervised all areas of music in the schools, and has earned the respect and admiration of students, parents and faculty. She is especially remembered for her production of "Pushcarts" and "Bridge of Angels." Now teaching a second generation of young Wilmington musicians, Miss Kalil is untiring in her efforts to bring musical excellence to the Wilmington schools.

Honors for Julie

The Wilmington Kiwanis Club on Monday night honored Julie Stedman, who won three gold medals last spring in the National Handicapped Ski Championships at Jackson Hole, Wyoming. A junior at Wilmington High School, Julie has been a member of the school gymnastics team, and has also run cross-country — on an artificial limb. Bob Tilton, president-elect of the Kiwanis Club, presented her with a plaque and a savings bond.

Preliminary plans filed for Concord Street office park

Preliminary plans were filed with the Wilmington Planning Board last week for the proposed Riverview - 93 Office Park, on Concord Street at the Wilmington - North Reading line. The 75-acre project is being planned to be mostly in North Reading, between Concord Street and the Ipswich River. The site is the former Drinkwater gravel pit.

The plans were presented by William Moore of H.W. Moore Associates of Boston, engineers. With Moore was Jan Front, project engineer, and attorney Peggy Yatesberg.

The developers are Spaulding & Slye, a firm who, in years past developed the New England Executive Park in Burlington, from a former sand pit.

Seven office buildings are being planned on a total of 72.49 acres. Parts of two of the buildings will be in Wilmington. The buildings will be readily visible from Route 93, looking eastward.

The entrance is to be a private road, totally in North Reading, and about 100 feet easterly of the north exit from Route 93. It will be opposite the entrance to Fordham Road, which is also in North Reading.

The office buildings will be directly across the Hundred Acre Meadow from the well field of the Reading Water Department. That town during the past few months has expressed concern over the possible pollution of its wells. Reading has hired an engineering firm to watch the progress of the planning of the proposed office park.

Moore told the Wilmington Planning Board that the project proponents are fully committed to the construction of an on-site sewer plant, as a part of the project. He and the two ladies were well aware of the concerns of Reading, as well as they were aware of the concerns of the Mass. Department of Environmental Quality Engineering (DEQE).

The Conservation Commissions of both North Reading and Wilmington have already approved the plans, Moore said. Part of the engineering work will be a removal of rock, from the river, placed there by the previous owner, while dredging sand from the river bottom.

Some of the rock to be removed from the site is a part of the former hill which the previous owners had been excavating, Moore said. In other parts of the project there will be a filling process, to make the site level and suitable for an office park.

25 years ago

Twenty-five years ago this week Wilmington High School celebrated UN Day at which Ruth Urbanas of South Main Street acted as delegate from the United States; Ken Spinelli served as the delegate from Red China and both were commended for their excellent speeches. Peter Neilson acted as the delegate from Germany and offered his speech in German.

William Childs of Linda Road won first prize in the Evening Practical Arts Photography Program. Mr. Childs' entry featured a picture of Wilmington's Congregational Church. Second prize went to Mrs. Almon Allard of Glen Road for her picture of her daughter Tia shampooing her hair.

Wilmington selectmen voted the town manager's salary increase raising his income to an all-time high of $9240.

Vincent Broderick of Glendale Circle was named chairman of local Sea Scouts.

Avco lent its missile head, the first one recovered after a 5500 mile flight, to Wilmington High School as part of the UN Day exhibition.

McNamara Tire Co. was advertising nylon snow tires for $16.88 each; Stevens' Market boasted fresh shoulders for .39 a pound; sausage meat for .29 and bacon at .49. The market also offered a chance to save Eveready stamps.

Major Modelevsky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Modelevsky of Salem Street was honored by the Air force for meritorious achievement, while participating in sustained aerial flight operational activities.

Letters to the editor

Dear Hometown:

Merry Christmas! To me you are almost 50 years worth of shining memories. You've traveled and lived with me all over the world while I followed my husband's career as an Air Force pilot.

Throughout the years, hundreds of happy memories have surfaced of my growing up years along your winding roads. This Christmas season kindles the warmest, brightest memories of all.

How well I remember:

Skating on your ponds. Sharp skates slicing the thin ice of December into sparkling shards.

Downs' horse plow. The smooth, old wooden hitch creaking as the horses plodded down Nickerson Avenue. Colossal snowbanks. Snow forts. Huge ones. Taller than any of us kids. Sledding by moonlight down a steep hill. Flat out on the sled, full speed, dodging trees. Catching the big dipper by the handle as we trudged back up the hill.

Hearing the "no school" whistle come from the town hall. Ecstatic over another day to create more snow forts or design on figure skates. A good snowball fight. Staying inside to bake cookies. Walking to Maple Meadow School for the first four grades. I still remember each bend of the dirt sidewalk, scuffing fallen leaves from the young maples along the way. Are the maples full grown now or cut down?

Buying penny candy at Perry's Corner Store. Christmas at Maple Meadow in Mrs. Patton's room. Drawing "secret" names for Christmas gift giving. Cutting out paper snowflakes for the windows. Creating red and green paper chains for the tree out of scarce construction paper. Air raids during World War II. Pushing our desks to the side of the room, lying on the floor, heads covered. The end of the war. Memorial Day parades. Dedication of Elmer Drew Square.

Other golden memories surface to decorate my tree of Christmas memories — Helen Elia's friendship. Waiting in her father's warm store for the bus. Elaine Christopher's shiny patent leather boots (She lost one in the creek.) Hiking to Silver Lake for some of Verlie Eaton's bubble gum supply during a shortage one year. Bobby Palmer sharing his Kool Aide, (unmixed), right from the package. Tart! Sonja Christenson's exceptional gift of art.

Smooth stone walls to climb on. A sacred sanctuary for solitude and prayer. Christmas caroling. Woodlands verdant in greens for wreaths. Wandering in groves of pyramid pine trees. Christmas decorations strung across Main Street. Christmas lights in windows all over town.

"Keep the lights on in Massachusetts, because (Wilmington) Massachusetts is the place I really want to be." May the Light of the World, the Christchild, be especially bright all over town — the best hometown in all the world.

Audrey Arbo Hanlon
R.D.1, Birdsboro, Pa.

Dear Larz:

The selectmen's advertised public meeting on December 10, 1984 concerning the reuse of the Town Hall continued the selectmen's input of requests extending for nearly three years! According to the Crier article of Dec. 12, 1984 a total of 13 groups "expressed an interest in it," some of whom were present.

During my tenure on the "Public Building Reuse Task Force" (June 1982-Dec. 1982) I became aware of the interest the Clock Folk had in the town hall which was ideal for their purpose. Having restored several antique clocks of my own over the years, I can appreciate their dedication to authentic repairs and restoration of treasured antique clocks and the great talent, skill and true craftsmanship involved.

The purchase of the town hall would not only provide cash reimbursement to all the taxpayers, but also would mean continuing tax revenue for many years. This is a broad benefit! The Clock Folk have agreed to maintain the property so that the historic aspect and the architectural heritage is continued. This, in the eyes of many, is more important than the financial benefits.

A craft shop of this nature is somewhat unique but is traditional in New England and would certainly enhance the image of the town! Further, it, in no way would be a detriment to the neighborhood.

The selectmen made no mention of receiving input in behalf of the Clock Folk in the form of a petition with some 40 signatures and numerous letters, not only from townspeople, but also from others as far away as Paris Hill, Maine. It is worthy of note that these were unsolicited! George L. Webster's letter to the editor in the Crier of August 1, 1984 is an excellent example of the general feeling.

Certainly the town can't maintain the property (witness that rot and peeling paint at the Harnden Tavern and other town buildings) and none of the other groups could or would maintain it as the Clock Folk would.

At the very least, the Clock Folk should be given the opportunity to negotiate the purchase.

Arnold Blake

Dear Larz:

Beautiful! Our town departments did a splendid job once again in decorating the town common. This decorated section of our town ranks right up with our neighboring towns which also take pride in their Christmas displays.

However, let's make a New Year's resolution to continue this display of pride throughout the year. Let's focus some attention on our public buildings.

Some examples: the Wilmington Memorial Library is spotless (as are ALL our public buildings) inside. The outside is in dire need of a paint job. Our future candidates for superintendent of schools would never find the school administration building as the rusty old sign is so illegible. With the cold weather upon us and the doors all closed, a stranger could go up and down Church Street in search of the fire station. A prestigious sign on the building boasting Wilmington - Engine 1, Rescue 1, Ladder 1, whatever, would certainly add some pride to our building which now could be mistaken for just a big garage.

This is a nice little Colonial town — on weekends when the traffic subsides — let's put some effort in 1985 to adding some class to it by keeping our public buildings in tip-top shape.

Grants awarded

Representative James Miceli has announced that three separate grants totaling $1,115.00, has been awarded by the Cultural Education Collaborative's Institute for the arts to the Wilmington Public School system. The awards are made possible through one of the Institutes' state-wide finding programs; Events, single visits by artists from a variety of disciplines; artists-in residence who work in schools for one to eight months; and art partnerships, programs developed among artists, cultural institutions and schools.

Representative Miceli said "I am very pleased to announce that Wilmington has been acknowledged in this manner by the Cultural Education Collaborative's Institute for the Arts."

The Institute for the Arts, in offering its financial and technical resources, is committed in supporting and providing quality arts education program, for learners of all ages throughout the state. Funding for the Institute is provided by the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities, a stage agency. State support is matched by funds raised in Massachusetts cities and towns for the support of local programs. Additional contributions from foundations, corporations and individuals make the Institute a model for collaborations between public and private funding sources.

A few gifts

by Arlene Surprenant

In the light of this magical season, when gifts are given and wishes often come true, I would like to play Santa for a few minutes. And in that role, there are a few gifts I would bestow on the residents, employees, and officials of our fair town of Wilmington. To the following:

Buzz Stapczynski: A more type-able name and some more task forces to help solve town problems.

Ron Swasey: A suggestion to move Santa's Workshop to the new town hall next year and get us all out of the cold (Brr!).

Principal Paul Fleming: A new home in Wilmington.

Peg O'Neill: A millionaire interested in renovating old buildings.

Adele Passmore: Some crossed fingers.

Ken Dorrance: A snowball to take with him to sunny Georgia and a postcard saying "We'll miss you."

Michael Cairra: A call to teach a course in "Getting the Most Out of Your Gavel."

The Chamber of Commerce: A year's supply of light bulbs for bringing to light the tactics of Reading Light.

Capt. Larz Neilson: Some peace and quiet in his office during creative moments and a few more hours on Wednesdays.

Chester Bruce: A place in the mountains far from the nearest wetlands.

Mark and Rhonda Lutz: One signed Sebastian and a hassle free move to Arlene Avenue.

The School Committee: A lot of endurance and good humor to see you through those anticipated superintendent's applications.

Jay Donovan: Good luck on his present undertaking with the redevelopment authority.

Fred Neilson: A one horse open sleigh to replace one worn car, and a shorter distance to Vermont.

Tony Gentile: A peaceful New Year.

Ben Ristuccia: A peaceful New Year too.

William Fay, Rose Murray and Lorna Stockbridge: A year's supply of empty cans and bottles and someplace to store them.

Rep. Jim Miceli: A VCR to play back his cable show and some leftover bumper stickers. Also, accolades on his ability to "move mountains" and get things done.

Bill Story: A chicken farm and some green lawn.

Bob Cain: Lots of insurance for his re-election bid in 1985.

Rocco DePasquale: One sewer line and a national chain of Mr. Spumoni Ice Cream shops.

The Wilmington Skating Clubs: A permanent freeze for Silver Lake.

Diane Allan: Some stamina pills for herself and the permanent building committee to see them through the next two years.

Robert Palmer: A snowless winter.

Sandra Volpe: Some extra time to work on those great kites she makes and sells when she's not attending her teaching duties.

Anne Linehan: An A for effort in her fight against substance abuse and a secretary to keep her many "packets" and telephone calls straight.

Stu Neilson: A moustache, comb and a recorder to play back his many witticisms.

Bridget Zukas: An electric fan to cool down Room Nine during committee meetings.

Chief Bobby Stewart: Some well deserved time off.

Our commuting residents: Two more traffic lanes and some needed lights through Wilmington Center.

The Fourth of July Committee: A bang-up year and more helping hands in 1985.

Larry Curtis and all those participating students and adults: Plaudits and some well earned rest and recognition of your efforts in behalf of the Community Fund Walk-a-thon.

Vaughn Surprenant: Thank you for his patience and support these past few months - indeed, for the past 19 years.

And to anyone else I didn't get a chance to mention, I would like to pass on the gifts of health, happiness, understanding, patience, and most of all, love. A meaningful holiday to all.

Lt. Mackey graduates from F.B.I. Academy

Lt. John R. Mackey of the Tewksbury Police Department was among 250 law enforcement officers who graduated recently from the 139th Session of the Federal Bureau of Investigation's National Academy, according to James W. Greenleaf, special agent in charge of the Boston office of the FBI.

William H. Webster, director of the FBI announced the graduation of the 250 law enforcement officers during graduation ceremonies at the FBI Academy, Quantico, Virginia at 10:30 a.m. December 14.

Former FBI Director Honorable Clarence M. Kelley was the principal speaker.

The class of 250 officers was represented by elected class spokesman Superintendent David John Wyrko, Northamptonshire Police, Northampton, England.

Law enforcement officers from every state in the union, except South Dakota, were joined by law enforcement officers from the District of Columbia, Guam, Puerto Rico, 10 foreign countries, five U.S. military organizations and six federal civilian organizations during the 11 weeks of management oriented training programs.

The 10 foreign countries represented were: Barbados, Bermuda, Canada, Chile, Costa Rica, Egypt, England, Federal Republic of Germany, Republic of Korea and Switzerland.

A total of 18,634 officers have graduated from the FBI National Academy (FBINA) since its inception in 1935. Of this number nearly 13,000 are still active in law enforcement and approximately one of every seven occupies the top executive position of his agency.

Since 1938, when the FBINA began admitting foreign students, there have been 723 foreign graduates representing 66 countries.

The FBINA curriculum is designed to meet the needs of contemporary law enforcement in such disciplines as management and police administration, law, the education and communication arts, and the behavioral and forensic sciences.

Each year, 1,000 law enforcement officers from throughout the United States and the free world participate in the FBI National Academy program.

Arts Council awards $500 grant for play

The Wilmington Arts Council has awarded the department a grant of $500.00 to help cover production costs for the upcoming Wilmington High School production of Arsenic and Old Lace.

"We are very grateful for the Council's support of our new program," said Mrs. Margaret Leonard, performing and fine arts director. "All plays cost quite a bit to produce and this will be of enormous help to our students. Eventually, we hope to develop productions that are self-supporting, but as this is our first production, we needed the financial assistance." The grant award is subject to state approval.

Mrs. Leonard and her staff have also been writing for grants through the Institute for the Arts and other sources to bring artists to the schools. So far this year, a potter, sculptor, papermaker, brass quintet, African dance company, and bassoonist have worked with students at various grade levels. Artists coming in 1985 include The Brown Bag Opera Company, Boston Youth Theatre, Bennington Puppets, Orrin

Starr (an American music expert), Impulse Dance Company and the Boston Arts Group. Staff in the Performing and Fine

Arts Department are also utilized as artists to showcase their skills and talents within the system.

The warm glow of holiday candles, a bright fire from the hearth, sounds of a feast that is soon to be, snow in the trees, and ice on the sill — the holidays are here again. It is a special time in New England. It is a time for family, a time for friends, and a time to hold close the things we find so dear.

Ground

Analog breaks ground for addition

"The goal of the Massachusetts High Tech Council is to make Massachusetts the world's most attractive location to live, operate and expand the high tech industry. As a result, we would see the expansion of job opportunities in many sectors, improved productivity, expanded tax revenues for social programs and an improved economic environment and overall quality of life. I couldn't think of a better example of a company that contributed to this goal than Analog Devices."

These were among the comments made by Howard Foley, president of the Massachusetts High Tech Council last Tuesday during the ground breaking ceremony at the company's semiconductor division on Woburn Street in Wilmington. On that day, the company celebrated the beginning of the first phase of a major expansion to take place on that site over the next year and a half.

Analog Devices President Ray Strata also spoke at the event, as did Jerry Fishman, group v.p. of the components group. In commemoration of the occasion, Mr. Fishman presented two four channel radios to the town of Wilmington for ambulance personnel. Fire Chief Daniel Wandell accepted the gift.

The expansion includes the addition of a new wing, the construction of an additional building, and the installation of a new very large scale integration (VLSI) wafer fabrication line in an existing facility. The new wing will include a state of the art mask making facility as well as a new cafeteria. In all, the new facilities will add over 100,000 square feet of space, allowing the division to accommodate its anticipated staff expansion. Frendolph Construction Corporation is the builder; the architect is Symmes, Maini and McKee Associates, Inc. The company expects to invest over $50 million in this project.

Analog Devices is headquartered in Norwood. Posting 1984 sales over $300 million, Analog is the leading producer of data acquisition components, subsystems, and systems used in precision real-world signal processing. Analog Devices Semiconductor designs, manufactures and markets monolithic integrated circuits used in a broad range of instruments and systems for both the industrial and the military marketplace.

Les Stark heads legislative committee of banking group

Leslie D. Stark, president of the Reading Co-operative Bank has been appointed chairman of the Legislative Committee of the Massachusetts Co-operative Bank League.

The Massachusetts Co-operative Bank League is the trade association representing the 101 co-operative banks in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in legislative, planning and marketing matters. The League's organization consists of seven standing committees: Advance Planning, Marketing, Bylaw, Data Processing, Legislative, Operations and Audit. Volunteer members of the 108 year old, 5.5

billion dollar cooperative bank industry serve as members of the committees while the daily operations are conducted by a professional staff, which is headed by President Donald S. Glass.

Officers for the League in 1985 are: Chairman, Thomas F. McPhillips, executive vice president of the Telephone Workers Co-operative Bank; First Vice Chairman, Claire R. Bothwell, president and chairman of the board of the Ware Co-operative Bank; Second Vice Chairman, Leslie D. Stark, president of the Reading Co-operative Bank.

Marlene Lynch weds Richard Russo

Marlene Elizabeth Lynch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lynch, Sr. of Faulkner Avenue, Wilmington became the bride of Richard Russo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Russo of Wilmington on Sunday, October 14.

Father William Smith celebrated the afternoon nuptial mass before the altar of St. Dorothy's Church which was decorated with baskets of mixed white flowers and ferns. Brian Kingsley, soloist at St. Michael's Church, North Andover and friend of the groom enhanced the mass with renditions of the Ave Maria, Pange Angelicus, The Wedding Song and other selections accompanied by William Noll at the organ. The gifts for Communion were offered by the bride's godparents Mrs. Barbara Brennick of Wilmington and Mr. William Nolan of Whittier, California and the groom's godparents Mrs. Margaret Russo of Woburn and Mr. Christopher Russo of Billerica.

A very impressive ceremony during the mass was the lighting of candles by the parents of the couple and presenting them to the bride and groom who lit one single candle signifying the unity of their marriage.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was elegant in a gown of bridal white tissue taffeta featuring a high neck with fitted bodice and puffed sleeves of lace encrusted with hand sewn sequins and pearls. Her skirt, with front insert of lace with sequins and pearls, swept into a long train outlined in lace and accented with pearls. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion, studded with pearls, fell from a matching headpiece of lace with sequins and pearls. She carried an all white floor length cascade of roses, baby carnations, orchids, lillies, stephanotis and baby's breath and greens.

Mrs. Patricia Lynch of Andover, sister-in-law of the bride served as matron of honor in a gown of huckleberry tissue taffeta with bodice of lace topped with a fitted jacket with puffed sleeves. She carried an arm spray of pale orchid roses with baby's breath and ferns. In her hair she wore matching flowers with baby's breath.

Attending the bride as maids were Tracey Russo of Wilmington, Mrs. Carol Baldwin of New Hampshire, sisters of the groom; Kim Baldwin of Wilmington, cousin of the bride; Mrs. Beth Pidgeon of Tennessee and Mrs. Debbie Wilson of New Hampshire, friends of the bride. Marissa Lynch of Andover, niece of the bride, served as junior bridesmaid while Allison Lynch of Andover served her aunt as flower girl. All the bridal party wore huckleberry gowns identical to that of the matron of honor and carried arm sprays of pale orchid roses with baby's breath and ferns.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Russo

Ushering duties were performed by Charles Russo of Wilmington, James Chase of North Andover, Bartholomew Conlon of Woburn, cousins of the groom; Keith Baldwin of New Hampshire, brother-in-law of the groom and Paul Lynch, Jr. of Colorado and Wilmington, brother of the bride. Kevin Scott of Wilmington, cousin of the bride, served as junior usher while Stephen Conlon of Woburn, cousin of the groom, acted as ring bearer.

Immediately following the mass a reception was held at the Sheraton-Rolling Green in Andover with guests present from Connecticut, California, Maine, New Hampshire, Tennessee, and Colorado where Miss Tamara Conlon of Woburn, cousin of the groom, circulated the guest book. Music during dinner and for dancing was furnished by Ted King and his orchestra.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Lynch chose a floor length gown of mauve guiana with shoulder accent of applied sequins and bugle beads from which fell a soft side drape. She wore a wrist corsage of baby carnations and bud roses while the groom's mother wore a gown of robin's egg blue with pleated skirt accented with a chiffon and lace shoulder cape. She wore a wrist corsage of mixed flowers.

For traveling, the new Mrs. Russo wore a black crepe skirted dress with a black and white silk blouse top accented with black accessories.

Following their wedding trip to Jamaica, the couple is now living in Dracut.

The bride was educated in Wilmington schools and is presently employed as a senior administrative secretary for ComputerVision in Bedford. Her husband was also educated in Wilmington and attended St. Leo College in Florida. He is presently employed by the town of North Andover.

MVC basketball preview

Wildcats, Redmen still building

by Rick Cooke
Sports Editor

This just might be the winter that the rebuilding Tewksbury High School basketball program begins to turn the corner toward respectability and more, while the Wilmington High School hoopsters are probably a year away from that same level of achievement in a conference that could be dominated by two teams (both in the same division) in 1984-85.

The Tewksbury Redmen, under third year coach Bob Melillo, will undoubtedly be better than their 5-15 record of a year ago. Melillo has coached the team to a 7-32 slate since arriving from a St. Clement's program that he built from the ground up. Despite the record, progress has definitely been made.

The Wilmington Wildcats will be looking for improved senior play to help lead a group of talented young players out of the round ball wilderness. Wilmington was 3-17 overall a year ago after fielding perhaps the best team in their history the year before that.

First year coach Dave Orndorff will be looking to get tough and see just who can play as the season progresses.

Luckily, the two local clubs play in the Small School Division of the Merrimack Valley Conference and won't be involved in the futile chase of Lowell and Billerica in the Large School Division. Central, despite graduating the high-low tandem of Bobby Licare and Leo Parent, should rate as a darkhorse in that division.

The Small School Division could develop into a pack of four or five teams chasing the title, with any one of them hard pressed to crack the tourney elite.

Anyone who gives a hoot about basketball should catch the Greater Lowell Christmas Festival beginning this Sunday (Dec. 23) at the Costello Gym.

The slate features Billerica vs. Nashua (1:15), Fitchburg vs. Medford (3 p.m.), Chelmsford vs. Cambridge RL (4:45) and Lowell vs. Acton-Boxboro (6:30). The boys' semifinals will be played Friday, December 28 at 6:30 and 8:15, with the championship game set for Saturday, December 29 at 8:15. Girls' squads from Tewksbury, Lowell, Acton-Boxboro and Chelmsford will also be competing. Chelmsford takes on Acton-Boxboro in the first game Thursday at 4:45, with coach Barry Sheehan's Tewksbury girls, a team that has always played well in this tournament, tapping off against Lowell Friday night at 4:45.

Tewksbury Redmen
Tewksbury has started its season in fine style with a pair of non-league routs over St. Joseph's after scrimaging St. Clement's, Burlington and Lynnfield this preseason.

Coach Bob Melillo feels that he finally has a team that can play an up tempo transition game that converts defensive pressure into points at the other end.

"This is the first year we really have a basketball team," notes Melillo in the true sense of the word. A year ago Tewksbury depended upon the offensive skills of Dave Whitney (Suffolk University) to produce points. If Whitney had an off night, the Redmen more often than not fell flat on their face. This season Melillo hopes to avoid that with a well balanced attack and a defense that creates turnovers.

"I like to use the fullcourt press, and this year we have the people who can do it in Tim Boudreau, Joe Vecchi, Rob Aylward and Brian and Barry Dick," offers Melillo.

The sophomore Boudreau and the junior Vecchi will start in the backcourt, while the senior Dick twins get the nod up front along with burly senior banger Mike Bosia. Melillo also has been pleased with the improvement of junior forward Bob Dunlay, who gives the Redmen some additional beef up front.

"We will be looking for transition baskets off steals," notes the TMHS coach. One of the keys to that strategy will be the development of Boudreau in the backcourt. A year ago he was thrust into a learning experience as a freshman and Melillo thinks that his guard benefited from the sink or swim lesson in hoopography.

"The mistakes that Tim made last year he won't make this year. He's had that years experience. But Tim is just a piece of the wheel," offers Melillo.

Path blocked

Tewksbury High School junior forward Rob Aylward has his path to the hoop cut off and his shot blocked by a St. Joseph's defender in Tewksbury's non-league basketball opener last week. The Redmen rolled past St. Joseph's twice in preparation for their MVC opener last week.

"We don't have any real superstars on this team yet, but we have seven or eight kids who can play."

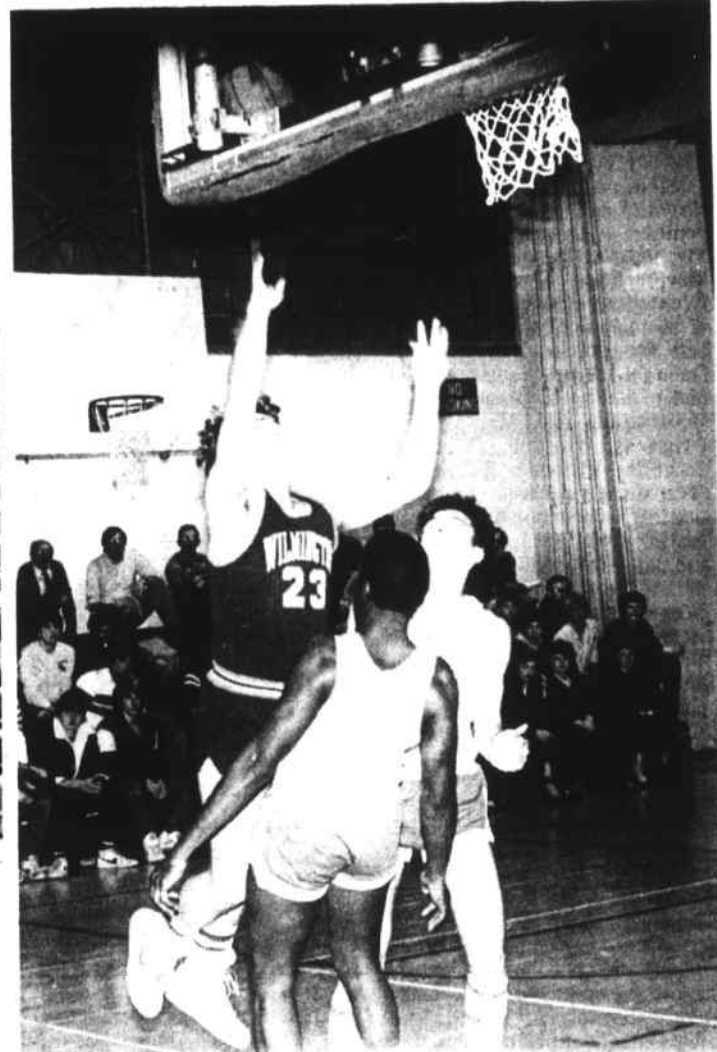

Tewksbury's problems could come when teams with size and quickness inside shut down the power game provided by the Dicks and Bosia. However, their appears to be some genuine improvement here, and a run at a break-even or better season is not out of the question.

The Redmen travel to Greater Lawrence for an 8:15 tap off Friday night before taking a Christmas break prior to the Wilmington tournament appearance December 29 and 30.

Wilmington Wildcats

First year coach Dave Orndorff, a WHS assistant coach for the past four years and a former Wildcat roundballer under coach Bob Dicey in 1965, takes over a team that is in the second year of a massive rebuilding task after qualifying for the tournament in 1983.

Wilmington scrimmaged Tyngsboro, Burlington, Shawsheen Tech and Newburyport before battling Lynnfield to a 30-30 tie in the annual Cape Ann League

Inside game

Wildcat senior forward Bill O'Donnell (23) drives to the basket for two points in recent action. O'Donnell and the Wildcats dropped a non-league decision to Chelsea last week in their season opener.

"That seventh and eighth grade travelling team has really helped our program a lot," offers Orndorff. "It's good for the kids to play against outside competition. You can just see them getting so much better. They are fundamentally sounder than they've been in years." "We should have a pretty good JV team," predicts Orndorff, who notes that three freshmen will be playing on that squad, with the possibility that two of them will be starting.

with eight points followed by Chris DeFrancesco and Keith Pearlstein with two points apiece.

Knicks 10 Celtics 6

Mark Woodbury and Brent Carbone hooped two buckets apiece, while Greg Hill netted two points for the Knicks. The Celtics were led by Joey Catanzano with four points.

Royals 22 Celtics 20

The Royals won in overtime behind the play of Brian Mullin with eight points and Dave and Dennis Godin with four points apiece. Joey Catanzano took game high honors for the Celtics with 15 points.

Eagles 26 Condors 10

Steve Burns (8), Derrick Stokes (5) and Anthony Bonnarigo (6) sparked the winners. The Condors were paced by Mark Zisis, Tom Peck and Eddie Beaudoin.

The Wilmington Recreation Basketball wrapup will be brought up to date in next week's Town Crier. The sports editor requests that all scoresheets be consistent in the spelling of each name and the scorers print clearly.

Bosia back and banging

Tewksbury High School senior power forward Mike Bosia (31) skies for this rebound against St. Joseph's last week. Bosia should be a key player for the 1984-85 Redmen.

Orndoff likes the looks of Lowell, Billerica, Central,

Andover and Chelmsford to have strong seasons. Methuen could also be much improved under second year coach Bucky Tardiff.

The WHS coach is definitely looking for his own squad to display some steady improvement. "I hope we can better last year's record. I hope so, or I wouldn't be here."

The Wildcats host the Methuen Rangers this Friday night (Dec. 21) at the WHS gym starting at 8 p.m.

Tewksbury Youth Basketball

Celtics hold off Suns

The Celtics held off a second half spurt by the Suns to win, 23-19 last week in Tewksbury Youth Basketball League action. Sean McSheehy scored eight points to lead the Celtics, followed by Greg Basillio with seven and Mark Conway with six.

Matthew Connors played a good game both ways. Fran Correia was top scorer for the Suns with six, while Keith Nolan and Arthur Merritt played well on defense and off the boards.

In other Intermediate League games, the Warriors defeated the 76ers, 32-17. Ken Talbot scored a game high 15 points and Jeff Foresta had five for the winners. Eric Leverault and Shawn Moorhouse were key defensive players. The 76ers were paced by David Corroll (eight) and Dan Silva (five). Kevin and John Kuchinski both had good performances.

The Nuggets continued their unbeaten streak as they topped the Bullets, 42-20. The Nuggets had a balanced offensive attack, with Brian Smith netting 16 points, Bobby Marshall scoring nine and Craig Hogan with eight.

The Bullets' Colin Callahan played a strong game with eight points, while Kevin Merritt tossed in four and Jimmy Thornton played a good defensive game.

The Pistons' Nick Stecher, Chris Dziadosz and Bob Gervais (four points) all played well.

The Knicks held on to first place in the Eastern Division as they outscored the Sonics, 37-17. Scoring for the Knicks were Steven Cooke (nine), Pat Teague (eight) and Dave Babine (six). Tommy Kelly played a good all around game for the winners. Mark Donahue and Pat Frennd had six points each for the Sonics. Todd Bairstow and Scott Selison played well on both offense and defense.

In Senior League play, the Pacers downed the Clippers, 53-45. Chris Sullivan led the Pacers with 12 points, while Shawn Sullivan, Paul Mirabella, Tom Gerrier and Billy Sullivan each had eight. Chris Macie, who left the game early with a leg injury, had 15 points for the Clippers, followed by Mike Hennessy (14) and Tommy Aylward (10).

The Hawks won over the Bucks, 72-62. The balanced

Hawk offense was led by Ted Sullivan (13), Tom Bradley (12), and Jeffrey Landry (11). Sean McDonough had eight points and played well on both ends of the court. The Bucks' scoring came from Dean Graffeo (22), Chris Mader (16), Jeff Wahl (nine) and Doug Welton (eight).

The Hawks also won over the Bulls, 54-39. Ted Sullivan had a game high 18 points for the Hawks, with Ken Culbertson and Brian Freitag each scoring eight. The Bulls' offense was led by Eric Mohan, who ended with 17 points, Chris Bova and Joe Kearns.

In other action, the Rockets defeated the Colts in overtime.

Wilmington Youth Basketball

Wildcats post third victory, 46-36

Saturday, December 15 the Wilmington Wildcats 7th grade traveling team, whose record prior to Saturdays' game was 2-2, gained their third away victory with a 46-36 win at Billerica.

The opening minutes of the game looked dismal for the young Wildcats, as the Billerica team took a 20-15 lead at the end of the first half.

The game exploded over the next two quarters for Wilmington, as all their skills and teamwork came together. The turn-around started when Jason Oliver stole the ball and passed to Andy Parr for a layup that started Wilmington on its' way to victory.

Three Wilmington players ended up in double figures, Jamey Robichaud and Mark Bobek shared high honors with 11 points each, followed by Scott Tuxbury with a season high of 10. Jason Oliver added nine and Andy Parr five. Good ball handling and rebounding was provided by Michael George, Chris Riccio, Mike Burns, Joey McFadyen, K.C. Bolger and Joey Mahoney.

Wilmington won its' first home game on Sunday against a stubborn Haverhill team, 39-28. In this fast moving game everyone had a sure hand and added to the score.

Jamey Robichaud led the scoring with 10 points, followed with six by Mark Bobek. Jason Oliver, Scott Tuxbury and Joey Mahoney racked up five each. Mike Burns, Chris Riccio, Peter Medberry and K.C. Bolger each hit for two. We had excellent ball handling by Andy Parr and Joey Mahoney.

Next Saturday, December 22 the team travels to North Andover for a 4 p.m. game. Sunday they will host Methuen at Shawsheen Tech at 2:15.

Wilmington Youth Hockey

Midget A's stay undefeated

The Wilmington Midget A hockey team, coached by Jack Calandrello, has distinguished itself in the West Division by going undefeated against Malden, Melrose, Nashua, N.H. and Billerica. The winning scores were 7-4, 5-3, 2-1 and 6-2 respectively.

Superb performances have been turned in by Jeff Brennan who scored a hat trick against Malden and has contributed six goals and five assists in all four games.

Captain Joe Costabile with five goals and two assists and linemate Bob Seville with three goals and four assists have also played superbly. Offensively, the team has scored twice as many goals as it has given up.

Standout goaltender John McNally is leading the league with a 2.5 goals against average, and most recently narrowly missed a shutout against a tough Nashua team.

Defensively, the team is led by Brian Walsh, Bill Gullage, co-captain Jay Joyce and Rich Kurowski. In four games they have allowed just three goals in the third period, while the Wilmington offense has scored 10 of its' total 20 goals in the same period.

Other members of the team are Steve McKenna, Sean Lambert, Steven Fuller, Dave Gardner, Tim Rooney and Butch Alpers.

The team is looking forward to the Greater Nashua Christmas Tournament held in Tyngsboro, where they will play teams from Canada, Connecticut and as far away as Philadelphia, Pa. The team will play its' tournament opponents on December 28, 30 and 31 with their sights on the finals to be played on New Year's Eve.

Ski Cannon Mountain
The Wilmington Recreation Department's next scheduled ski trip is to Cannon Mountain on Thursday, December 27. Cost for coach transportation and lift ticket is $30.00. The Recreation Department's ski trips are primarily for high school ages and older. Out of towners are welcome on a space available basis.

Register at WHS with Mr. Cain or with Ron Swasey in the Recreation Office.

Robinson earns cable sports award

Greater Boston Cable Corporation Colony Communications Woburn, recently presented "Local Cable Sports" awards to three outstanding area high school athletes. The awards, named for the system's community sports show, were given to recognize the talents of some of the area's finest athletes whose achievements have been featured on the program during the fall season. "Local Cable Sports" hosts Steve Memmolo and Chris Connelly presented recipients Skip Johnson of Burlington High School, Kathy Robinson of Wilmington High School and Hilary Anderson of Stoneham High School with commemorative plaques during Greater Boston Cable's live cablecasting of the "Toys for Tots" telethon the weekend of November 30.

Local Cable Sports is telecast Fridays at 9 p.m. and Saturdays and Sundays at 5:30 and 7 p.m. on Channel 6. The show recently received an "ACE" award, the cable industry's highest honor for local programming.

traveling team was recently defeated by Billerica, 45-41 in a hard fought game. Top scorer for Wilmington was Jeff Bowen with 12 points, followed by Steven Hanifan with nine. Five points each were scored by Ronnie Pennie and Neil Pentinen, while Mark Palmisano and Brian Pupa sank four each and Michael Buonopane two.

Hanifan and Palmisano were strong under the boards, with some excellent ballhandling by Bowen and Pennie. The entire team, though severely understaffed, contributed in this hard played, fast moving game.

A show of their own

Pre-school children always provide secondary entertainment at school concerts. As students at the Shawsheen School performed on the stage, two toddlers staged their own performance in the aisle.

Mice

First grade students at the Shawsheen School performed in "I'm A Little Mouse." Their act was the cutest in the show.

A poke at a pinata

Many of the skits used in the school concerts have an international theme, such as this one about a Christmas pinata.

Students of the month at Wilmington High

Lauren Callahan and Gregory Sullivan have been named students of the month for December at Wilmington High School.

Lauren Callahan

Lauren is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Callahan of 43 Boutwell St. and is a member of the National Honor Society, French Honor Society and Math Honor Society. She has received an award for outstanding achievement in A.P. United States History, foreign language, psychology, art and home economics.

She has also received a plaque for ranking in the top five academically in her freshmen, sophomore and junior years. Lauren is captain of the cross country and winter track teams and is faculty section editor for the yearbook staff. She has applied to Holy Cross, Boston College and Assumption to major in psychology.

Gregory is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Sullivan of 36 Columbia St. and is a member of the Spanish Honor Society and will be inducted in the National Honor Society in the spring.

He received an academic letter, played football and enjoys playing hockey. Gregory has applied for admission to Merrimack College and Northeastern University.

Jennifer St. Onge awarded Superintendent's Certificate

Jennifer St. Onge, of Shady Lane Drive, was awarded the Mass. Assoc. of Superintendents' Certificate of Academic Excellence on December 12.

According to Superintendent of Schools Dr. Carol Sager, who presented the award, St. Onge won for her "pursuit of excellence," an exemplary academic record, involvement in school activities, and the "high regard" in which she is held by both faculty and students.

Jennifer, who ranks first, academically, in her senior class, is the daughter of Ann and David St. Onge.

She has held membership in the National and Math Honor Societies, Foreign Language Club, Student Council, SADD, cross country track, United Methodist Youth Fellowship, the Girl Scouts and Explorers.

She has applied to Worcester Polytechnical Institute and Cornell University, and has been accepted to Purdue University.

Students who received the certificates were honored at a superintendent's tea on Dec. 11 at Northern Essex Community College.

Wilmington police news

Edward LaRoche, 46, of Dover, N.H. was arrested during the evening of December 18 by Officers Redding and White of the Wilmington Police and charged with operating under the influence of alcohol and failure to keep to the right. The arrest was made after several telephone reports to the police station of a car being driven erratically on Route 38.

Daniel Brooks, 18, of 39 Hopkins St., and Randall Kroken, 18, of King Street, Wilmington were arrested on default warrants issued by the Woburn Court. Officers Redding and McCue made the arrests. Also arrested on a warrant from Belmont was David MacAuley of Hyde Park. He was turned over to the Belmont police.

Robert Feeney of Gowing Road was arrested on a Woburn Court default warrant by Sgt. Vassallo Wednesday evening. Thursday Officers Peterson and LaRivee arrested Karl Hirsh of 9 Starbird Ave., Twksbury on a motor vehicle default warrant from Wilmington.

At 10:30 a.m. Thursday morning officer Bob Spencer arrested William Perry, 18, of Oakridge Circle for possession of marijuana, in the high school. Perry was taken directly to the Woburn Court.

Inspectors Jenson and Celata arrested a Tewksbury man Thursday afternoon on drug related charges. Kevin Goodwin, 21, of 39 Florida Ave., Tewksbury was charged with possession of a Class D substance, and the possession of a Class B substance with intent to distribute, believed to be cocaine. Goodwin was later bailed for a Friday court appearance.

Rader Officer Al Venuti, on Friday morning arrested a Billerica man, after a routine traffic check revealed that a warrant had been issued for him by the Woburn Court. Robert Porcella, 23, of 41a Sheldon Rd., Billerica was taken directly to the Woburn Court for processing.

Police of Wilmington, as well as of other communities adn the State Police will be paying close attention to drinking drivers over the holidays. Those who are caught will be prosecuted. It is the intention of the Wilmington Police to make Wilmington a safe community in which to operate a car.

If you drink, don't drive. If you drive, don't drink.

There was a total of 18 alarms, which were answered by the police during the past week, and a total of 18 cases of vandalism.

There were six accidents, nine arrests, one assist to another department, five disturbances, one case of assault and battery, and three reports of breaking and entering.

Four cases of larceny were reported. There were two cases of medical assistance being given. Three persons were taken into protective custody, and five cases of suspicious activity were reported. One person was reported missing. There were six complaints, because of traffic.

Correction

An arrest on a default warrant was mistakenly reported in this column for two consecutive weeks, when only one arrest took place. The person involved was Earl Hildebrand, age 21.

Wilmington senior topics

Reaching out at Christmas

Christmas is both a happy and a lonely time for the older person. To reach a happy medium for all, the Council on Aging is doing everything possible this year to reach out to as many senior citizens as it can. Approximately 200 seniors enjoyed a marvelous evening at the Council's Christmas therapeutic social held in the Tewksbury - Wilmington Elks hall last Thursday. A delicious roast beef dinner was served. Music through dinner and dancing was provided by Roger Dames to the satisfaction of all. Participants returned home tired but with happy memories. Meals for shut-ins

With the help of students at Wilmington High School under the direction of Mary Thiel, the employees of Compugraphic Corp. and the Woburn District Court through Police Chief Bobby Stewart last week 83 bags containing several meals were packed and delivered to senior shut-ins. In addition to the bags of meals 40 baskets of fruit or gifts were delivered to seniors who were not in need of food.

Open house
To complete the Christmas holiday celebration open house will be held at the Senior Center on Friday afternoon, December 21 beginning at noon. It is hoped that anyone interested will drop in for a little refreshment and extend the holiday greeting to all. Anyone who would like to be invited to send salads, goodies or any dish. Donations would be appreciated.

Raffled items

All the items at the Drop-in Center on chances were raffled off on Thursday, December 13. The winners were: Ceramic Christmas tree donated by Mary Cunningham was won by Nora Zengilowski; Christmas fruit cake, donated by Ann MacInnis, won by Steve Miloszewski; blanket doll, bride doll and bridesmaid doll donated by Marjorie Brancione were awarded to Edie Cunningham, J. Joyce and Bea Miller; train donated by Tom Cunningham, won by Ivy Lienhard; teddy bear donated by Mary Babcock was won by Lorraine Enos and Raggedy Ann and Andi was won by Thelma Howe.

The arts and crafts committee realized a substantial amount of money from these articles which was turned over to the Buzzell Renovation Committee. Thanks — to all who donated or took chances.

Employment opportunity

The center has received a call from James Sueko of Independent Cement. He would like a senior man to work in his small office four hours a day. If interested call Mr. Sueko at 933-5168 to discuss salary and work details.

Excess funds?
If anyone has a few dollars left after their Christmas shopping is finished and they don't know what to do with it — the Center urges them to make a Christmas donation to the Buzzell Renovation Fund in their name or the name of a loved one.

Student of month at Shaw Tech

Deanna Frontain

Deanna Frontain, daughter of Joseph and Irene Frontain of Dewey Street, Tewksbury, has been selected as one of the October Students of the Month from Shawsheen Tech. This program, sponsored by the Billerica Lodge of Elks, seeks to honor students on the basis of character, leadership, services and scholastic achievement.

Deanna is presently a senior in the Commercial Art Technical Illustrating Department. This extremely active young woman spells her middle name "involvement." Prom Committee Chairman, Yearbook editor and Yearbook photographer, Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) shop representative, Night School Aide in Photography, and Student Council mention only a few of her undertakings.

As talented and active, Deanna has won the Boston Globe Art award and has taken first place in the VICA Competitions in art.

An honor roll student for four years at the Tech, Deanna plans to continue her education on the college level.

Officers of the Shawsheen School Student Council display some of the box-tops collected in their drive to help restore the Statue of Liberty.

Students collect box-tops, money for Statue of Liberty

The student council at the Shawsheen School in Wilmington launched a campaign to help restore the Statue of Liberty, a landmark that represents freedom to the whole world. Due to age and bad weather, the statue is in terrible disrepair.

The student council project involved collecting Kellogg cereal box tops. In a matter of weeks the boys and girls in grades kindergarten through six brought in over 500 Kellogg cereal box tops. The Kellogg Company will make a $50 donation to the Statue of Liberty Foundation in the school's name. The Shawsheen School will also receive a citizenship award which will be proudly displayed.

The student council, under the direction of Mrs. Michele Caira Norton, is headed by President Dennis Walker, Vice President Brian Oxman, Secretary Michael Reppucia, and Treasurer Tara Perez. Fifth grade representatives include Jennifer Caira, Lynda Kell, Doreen Martin, Leanne Mcconologue, Brian McGinley, Katy Palm, Michael Pilcher and Sean Poloian. Sixth grade reps are Matthew Callahan, Nicolle DelNinno, George Orfaly, Christine Peters, and Susan Sweet.

The school's parent advisory council sparked the idea, which was then picked up by the student council.

A fair for the great outdoors

A free public fair for those interested in the great outdoors will take place at Phillips Academy in Andover on Sunday, January 6, between noon and 5 p.m. Organizations to be represented all stress different aspects of an extended wilderness experience.

Some, such as Outward Bound, focus on stress and teamwork, others emphasize skills in survival. Hiking, climbing, biking, sailing, camping, white water boating, instruction in the natural sciences (such as marine biology, geology, ecology), and cultural exchange are among the options offered.

As the first opportunity to review many different education programs under one roof, the fair will include continuous slide shows by organizations based locally, nationally and abroad.

Programs to be represented include Outward Bound, NOLS (The National Outdoor Leadership School), Audubon, Interlocken, The Quebec-Labrador Foundation, the School for Field Studies, American Youth Hostel, Oceans, Earthwatch Expeditions, Wilderness Bound, and the Keystone Center.

The fair will take place in the Underwood Room at Phillips Academy, across from the Andover Inn on Chapel Avenue, off Route 28 in Andover.

Questions concerning the fair may be addressed to him at Phillips Academy: (617) 475-3400, ext. 192.

It's Time to Pay Larz!

Each year just after Santa's busy time comes another season called "Time to Pay Larz." Thousands of people save a buck by renewing their Town Crier subscriptions without being billed. Local readers (Wilmington and Tewksbury) can save one dollar by sending $12.00 to Larz. Readers who live elsewhere and don't want to miss a single issue should make their checks out for $16.00.

After January 31, renewal notices will be mailed to all subscribers who have not renewed. The price will be $13.00 for Wilmington and Tewksbury and $17.00 out of town.

Gift subscriptions are still available. Just enclose a note with your check along with the name and address of the recipient and Larz will send a card to your friend and the Town Crier for one year. The same rates as above apply.

New subscriptions are also available at these discount rates. Subscribers whose subscriptions expire during the year can save a buck by renewing now, too.

Farmer puts fence within fenced-in animal pen

The fences at the Samsel property on Pleasant Street, Tewksbury are in place, but they are only three feet high, and consequently can not be well seen from the street, the Tewksbury Board of Health learned during their meeting on December 17.

Samsel had agreed to the board of health's December 3 request that he erect a fence within an existing fenced-in area so that a corral for several animals he keeps on his Pleasant Street garden center and farm will meet with the town's bylaws concerning the keeping of animals.

The existing fence fell short of the required distance of 25 feet away from the street and 10 feet away from abutting property lines. So, Samsel agreed to erect a fence within a fence that will contain the animals.

The recently erected fence within a fence apparently now brings the corral into compliance with bylaws. The health board requested the work be done before they agreed to issue Samsel a permit to keep the animals, with the exception of a horse, on the site. The board felt the existing fence was not proper to contain the horse on the site.

Neighbors of the area have complained to the health board that the animals frequently get loose from the corral. But, the health board agreed with Samsel that from time to time animals will get loose on a farm.

Health Board Chairman Jack Lu, however, had shown concern that Samsel erect a fence that will keep several sheep and goats on the property within the corral. He reported he had been on Pleasant Street, saw the Samsel property and could see no fences from the street, other than the outside fence.

Member Joan Dunlevy told him she had gone into the site and inspected the fences. She agreed, however, that they are hard to see from the street. At her suggestion Anthony Samsel had measured some of the distances involved for her, but Dunlevy did not tell the results in the meeting.

One fence, she said is perpendicular to Pleasant Street and the other parallel to it, on the part of the property that abuts the Bennett property. The fences, three feet in height, are hard to see. There are additional rope fences, which are basically made of clothes line.

The sheep and goats on the property, she said, could probably step over the fences, but she did not see them as a problem. The sheep and goats tend to huddle around the barn for that is where they are fed.

The horse, which Samsel is supposed to get rid of in 30 days, is the pet of Mrs. Samsel, Dunlevy said. It is not a "prancing stallion," and is lame. The horse "hangs around" the back door, according to Dunlevy.

She saw no sign of an electric fence on the site. Samsel, during a meeting on December 3, told the board he would erect an electric fence to contain the animals in the corral.

How to send your guests home sober

In cooperation with the Mass. Dept. of Safety, the Div. of Alcohol, The Chemical People Project and the Wilmington Police Department this information is offered to tell how to ensure a successful and safe party:

1. Plan the event carefully, estimate how much alcohol to have on hand, based on the number of guests and the length of the party (one drink per guest per hour) and limit the amount of liquor you purchase in the first place.

2. Keep a big punch bowl on hand for guests to throw their keys in when they arrive. Give the keys back at the evening's end when the driver is clearly capable of operation of a car.

3. Suggest the concept of "designated driver." One person is selected in advance to be the driver for the evening. That person agrees not to drink.

4. Provide a theme, or organize social events through the evening so that guests don't break into segregated huddles of heavy drinkers and non-drinkers.

5. Regard alcohol as the highly toxic substance it is; know its effects. Importantly, know yourself and how much you can consume

6. Know the law in your state and follow it. At parties with youths, be conscious of the drinking age and remember, serving minors is illegal.

7. Provide nutritious, attractively presented foods throughout the evening so the alcohol won't be totally absorbed into the blood stream.

8. Avoid having an open bar and be certain to measure all drinks. Enjoy, savor, and sip, but treat alcohol as the drug it is.

9. Don't push guests to drink. One drink per hour is about all the body can absorb. Let guests ask for refills.

10. Recognize that drunkenness is neither healthy, humorous, nor safe. Don't excuse otherwise unacceptable behavior just because someone has had "too much to drink." Accepting drunkenness encourages alcohol misuse.

Wishing you a safe, sane and happy holiday.

NUTCRACKER

27 local children involved

It's a magic world for the children in the audience — and in the cast

By Maggie Lewis

Boston

"OK, Cast 2 Soldiers, take your rifles. Cast 2 Bunnies? Cast 2 Mousy?"

Ron Cunningham doesn't have to raise his voice. He just makes this request and a squadron of 10-year-olds shoulder plywood arms as a mouse and bunny take up their positions.

As the garbled boom of an old tape of "The Nutcracker" fills the Boston Ballet's rehearsal rooms, the soldiers of Cast 2 charge in formation against a bunch of men who represent the huge, evil mice attacking the Nutcracker, their leader.

"The Nutcracker" is a magic world for the 200 children who appear in two casts of this annual production. For some, however, it's more than an incredible dose of make-believe. According to Nicole Eldridge, who is dancing the coveted role of Clara this year for the second time, this is the only ballet children can relate to "until they're older or get more serious."

Nicole, a pleasant, unaffected 11-year-old with Huckleberry Finn-like freckles, curly dark brown hair, and a turned-up nose, remembers getting serious at age 4 — when she first saw a little girl dancing Clara. When she dances in front of the mirror, she watches herself in a way that looks vaguely perky — until you realize she is smiling to mask her intense concern with just where this turn is going and when that foot goes down.

She should be concentrating. In this child-dominated ballet (there are 81 children's roles, 28 for adults) Clara is the focus. There are, of course, the Sugar Plum Fairy and the Dew Drop Fairy, danced by those lofty and distant creatures, the professional ballerinas. But it is before Clara's wide-with-wonder eyes that the whole two-hour fantasy unrolls. The 200 Boston School of Ballet children and 34 company members are scheduled, rehearsed, and deployed like an invasion through 32 performances in three weeks. There are two casts. There are understudies. And there are small heroes who take up the trumpet of an absent bunny and go on with no rehearsal at all. In these glitzy, gleaming, whirling, violin-wooded and fake-snowflake-dusted three weeks of December the Boston Ballet (like most major US ballet companies) earns most of its operating budget for the year. These children help, as do their peers on the other side of the footlights.

This tremendous effort doesn't necessarily lead to a career in ballet, says Ron Cunningham, but it helps them learn discipline for whatever they do. There is, however, a certain ballerina mentality already at work among the children. The role of Clara, for example, is so coveted that the girls who get it don't have to learn it. They have gazed so longingly at the little girls who were Clara before them that the steps have already sunk in.

In fact, the two Claras and their understudies, who were jostling around an empty rehearsal room one day recently, weren't even practicing their steps. Instead, they were sliding in and out of one of the diversions the professional dancers do with a studied nonchalance. They put in long hours at rehearsals, lying on their stomachs among the ballet bags doing their homework when they're not needed. Then they hop up at a moment's notice to curtsy to the Sugar Plum Fairy or to wave while being towed offstage in an imaginary sled.

"I can picture everything," says Nicole. So when director Ron Cunningham (who also dances Drosselmeyer the Magician) points to James Reardon in an old T-shirt and tights, she walks around him with wide eyes and clasped hands — nodding her approval exaggeratedly because she sees the toy Nutcracker, magically grown to life size.

New Year's resolutions

Our gallivanting-about correspondent has just dropped off his list of New Year's resolutions on our desk. He insists that, unlike previous years, he will keep this year's. We're not so sure about that. Notwithstanding his promise, here they are for you readers to decide whether he'll keep them or not:

I resolve:

Not to mention another dog of any kind in any of my columns;

Not to wait until my car is dragging its muffler and smoking up a storm before I bring it to my mechanic and good friend, Peter Barbas;

Not to poke fun at any politicians in my column, unless of course they still deserve it three days after their blunder;

Not to get upset at all those Megabucks winners just because they don't have to work anymore and I do;

Roving.

Not to dwell on Doug Flutie's own megabucks contract in this column, when it comes and when it becomes the main topic of discussion for weeks in nearly every other column in America;

Not to let more than one week go by without calling my mother and father, who are simply the greatest parents who ever lived, and telling them how important they are to me;

Not to use the words "nin-compoop," "fathead," "Derriere," "Imbecile," "Brainless," "self-indulgent" or "wet nurse" when either the leadership of this state or female companionship in this column;

Not to write another column, that exploits a certain friend who likes to wear pants with frogs, lobsters and sailboats on them;

Not to put Boy George down, even if I am at odds as to how he has suddenly replaced John Wayne as the image of the male hero;

Not to criticize truck drivers as a whole, just because a few of them think my two-by-four driveway is the main entrance into a major hotel complex and end up tearing my lawn to shreds at least three times a year;

Not to write another single sentimental column, because nobody really gives a darn about sentimentality anymore;

Not to forget to really call my friends when I say I'm going to call them;

Not to go another weekend without watching at least two old movies, hopefully ones starring Tyrone Power and Greta Garbo;

Not to put off going to the eye doctor's and dentist's in '85;

Not to let another day go by without sitting down at my dining room table by myself, with candles lighted, Wagner blaring from the living room stereo and popping open a special bottle of Moet and toasting to the fact that I'm still a survivor, and that there's nobody who can take that away from me — of course, saying "cheers" to the Man upstairs might help a little too;

Not to quote from the New Yorker, F. Scott Fitzgerald or Khalil Gibran ever again;

Not to mention Newbury Street, the Back Bay or the fall of 1970 ever again in this column;

Not to ever again sit in my underwear in front of the refrigerator and drink beer and write poetry, unless of course I have my helmet on;

Not to mention Daisy Buchanan's, or for that matter any other Hemingwayesque bar, in this column ever again;

Not to criticize metermaids or the city of Boston's parking commissioner again, even if they are suffering terribly from fundamental illiteracy;

Not to let the snow pile up to my windows before I decide it's time to shovel it;

Not to wear my New Balance tennis shoes to a certain pub in Billerica, a pub that is having a hard time deciding whether it wants well-dressed thugs or casual Proper Bostonians as customers;

Not to allow my passive aggressiveness to become borderline, otherwise I'm liable to rip this column up before it gets to my editor's desk;

Not to ever again do another list of New Year's resolutions, because I never manage to keep any of them anyway;

Not to forget to thank my faithful followers for sticking by me through, as they say, the thick and thin of it while together we move onward and upward on the avenue.

Happy New Year, readers.

DANCE From S-1

This vision is probably what got her the part — more than her erect carriage and her ability (noted in the Boston Globe) to kick her leg up as high as her ear. "I cast Clara as a little girl, not as a ballet dancer," says Bruce Wells, acting artistic director of the company. What he looks for is "presence — a sense of performance. I love Nicole because she's so unaffected."

"It's not a big reach," he adds, for the children in the audience to imagine themselves in her tiny pink shoes.

"Nobody wants to see a 3 1/2-foot ballerina," Cunningham agrees. "They need to be natural and spontaneous, but they need training. A kid off a street wouldn't project that." He says Nicole is "very talented — whether that means she'll be a wonderful dancer or maybe a very fine and wonderful lawyer." It's too soon to tell, he and Mr. Wells both feel.

Nicole, however, decided to become a professional dancer seven years ago when she saw her first "Nutcracker." This is her fourth year in "The Nutcracker," and though she will have a hard time giving up the role of Clara, she knows already what roles she should be working through to progress. She'd like to be a Flower, she says, adding that "some people get Drag-onflies, but not many." She studies ballet for an hour and a half to two hours a day, aside from Clara rehearsals. And she's apparently immune to stage fright. She's only sorry she can't see more than the first few rows of the audience, because when they smile at her, she works harder.

NEMH gets alcohol grant

Blue Cross of Massachusetts and the Massachusetts Hospital Association today announced the award of a $9,000 grant from the Blue Cross-MHA Fund for Cooperative Innovation to New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham.

New England Memorial will use the grant to conduct research into the feasibility of providing alternative levels of care for alcoholism treatment rather than the traditional 28-day inpatient detoxification program.

"New England Memorial Hospital has a long history of providing excellent care to thousands of residents north of Boston," said Blue Cross President David W. Frost.

"We applaud their efforts to research and design a program of treatment for alcoholism which could significantly curtail costly inpatient treatment by providing alternative, but effective treatment programs."

New England Memorial Hospital will conduct two brief studies to estimate the numbers of patients who might benefit from alternative levels of care for patients afflicted with alcoholism.

In the studies, 200 randomly selected medical-surgical patients will be interviewed and their records reviewed to determine if they are in need of receiving treatment for alcoholism.

Each patient requiring treatment will be admitted to the traditional acute detoxification unit. Then the patient's progress will be closely monitored and reviewed to estimate the points at which he or she could be transferred to less intensive and less costly programs.

New England Memorial will design a multi-level model of treatments including acute inpatient detoxification, long-term residential care, day treatment, family consultation, outpatient department treatment and self help, such as Alcoholics Anonymous with the results of its research.

"Hospitals in Massachusetts have repeatedly demonstrated over the years that they provide the finest quality health care possible," said MHA President David Kinzer. "Programs established under the Fund for Cooperative Innovation are laying the foundation for the continuance of high-quality care at a lower cost to those using hospital services."

The Blue Cross-Massachusetts Hospital Association Fund for Cooperative Innovation aims to stimulate cooperative experiments in health care cost-containment. Founded in 1982, the Fund disburses grants to qualified institutions and health care providers to conduct research and implement cost-reducing programs.

Peep-hole driving

"Peep-hole driving" is one of the most dangerous of all "winter sports," the American Automobile Association said today.

"Drivers who do no more than turn on their windshield wipers to make small holes to peep through after a snow fall certainly show their inexperience," according to Caroline J. Hymoff, Manager of Safety Services for AAA Massachusetts. "In icy weather these same drivers scrape clear a small area of the windshield and try to navigate before the defroster has a chance to clear the windshield adequately."

"Good drivers know they must be able to see in all directions. You'll never find an expert driver in a snowcovered vehicle practicing 'peep-hole driving.'"

"Throughout the winter, make a habit of removing all snow from all windows, and from as much of your car as possible," the AAA official said. "Snow left on the hood can blow back against the windshield when you are moving along. Snow on your car's roof can be blown off and may hit another car."

CLASSIC FILM SERIES FOR CHILDREN

The Museum of Our National Heritage, 33 Marrett Road, Lexington, is presenting an "American Classics Film Series" during Christmas vacation week, December 23 through 31. Admission is $1.00 for adults, 50 cents for children, and a maximum family rate of $3.00. Tickets will be available at the Museum beginning at Noon the day of the film.

The following films, each a screen adaptation of a classic American novel, will be included in the Program:

Sunday, Dec. 23 at 2:00 p.m. The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn (1939). A fine adaptation of Mark Twain's classic novel of a young boy's life on the Mississippi River. Directed by Richard Thorpe and starring Mickey Rooney as Huck Finn.

Wednesday, Dec. 26 at 2:00 p.m. The Red Badge of Courage (1951). World War II hero Audie Murphy stars in Stephen Crane's Civil War drama. Script and direction by John Huston.

Friday, Dec. 28 at 2:00 p.m. Little Women (1930). Directed by George Cukor and starring Katherine Hepburn as Jo, one of her earliest and favorite roles. The story is based on Louisa May Alcott's Concord childhood.

Monday, Dec. 31 at 2:00 p.m. Moby Dick (1956). Gregory Peck portrays Capt. Ahab, obsessed by his search for the great white whale. Co-starring Orson Welles and directed by John Huston.

Museum hours are Monday through Saturday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sundays 12 noon to 5 p.m., closed Christmas Day and New Year's Day. Museum admission and parking are free. For more information call 861-6559.

FIRST NIGHT

This ten-hour, city-wide New Year's Eve celebration of the arts begins with a Children's Festival from 2 - 5 P.M. Procession of giant puppets, magical beasts, and costumed performers from Hynes Auditorium to Boston Common at 5:30 P.M. Spectators are encouraged to participate. Evening activities include over 100 performances by 400 artists at 40 indoor and outdoor locations.

Indoor events — dance, theater, mime, music, film, video, poetry — are staged in churches and theaters all within easy walking distance. Storefronts become settings for performances and light installations. Ice and light sculptures are installed on public plazas. Midnight fireworks over Boston Harbor conclude celebration.

First Night general admission buttons for all events are $4. Buttons available at Bostix, Visitor Information Booths at Boston Common and Prudential Center, Loeb Drama Center and Out of Town News and Ticket Agency in Cambridge, participating Brigham's in Boston and Cambridge and at performance locations on December 31.

Families are encouraged to attend. For further information call (617) 424-1699.

YEAR OF THE COW

The Boston Children's Museum kicks off the "Year of the Cow" in true festive Japanese tradition during the annual Oshogatsu (Japanese New Year) Celebration, Sunday, January 6, 10 a.m. — 4 p.m.

Throughout the day, the Kyo no machiya, the Museum's 100-year-old house from Kyoto, Japan, will be decorated in its New Year's finest with pine boughs by the entrance and kagami mochi (symbols of longevity and good luck) in the tokonoma. But that's just the beginning. This year the Museum will not only teach you about origami (the art of paper folding), but you can also make your own and help decorate the origami tree.

Visitors can also learn about, and help make, Oshogatsu Ryori (New Year's food like mochi), as well as ozoni (soup), from noon-3 p.m.; or, find out about cha no yu, the popular and traditional art of tea ceremony, presented by the Boston Urasenke Tea Society at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Throughout the day, there will be New Year's Games to play like fukuwarai (the smiling goddess game), hanetsuki (Japanese badminton), sugoroku (a board game) or karuta (a matching card game). You can also try your hand at kakizome (calligraphy) or nengajo (New Year's greeting cards).

sweets). This exhibit will be on display through June, 1985.

In addition to the Celebration, the Museum just opened a new exhibit of shokuhin sanpurur (fake food). Crafted in the Kappabashi district of Tokyo, it is used for displays by restaurants as enticements to bring in customers and to assist foreign visitors in ordering food.

It all looks good enough to eat, but it's really nothing more than washable, non-toxic, polyvinyl chloride. The exhibit includes both typical American dishes such as peanut butter and jelly sandwich and a hamburger with french fries, as well as some traditional Japanese cuisine like shushi and manju (Japanese

So, on January 6 bring your family to the Museum and discover a piece of Japan in your own backyard.

The Boston Children's Museum is on Boston's waterfront at Museum Wharf, 300 Congress Street, a short walk from Faneuil Hall Marketplace and accessible by public transportation. The Museum is open Tuesday through Sunday, 10 a.m. — 5 p.m. and Fridays until 9 p.m.; closed Mondays except Boston school vacations and holidays. Christmas Seals help American Lung Assoc.

BURLINGTON — The millions of Americans who decorate their Christmas card envelopes and gift packages with Christmas Seals every year know they are participating in an enduring American tradition. These decorative little stamps are holiday symbols of health and hope and tokens of happy times.

Christmas Seal contributions are the primary means by which the American Lung Association, the nation's oldest voluntary public health organization, advances the prevention and control of all lung diseases. Christmas Seals were originally introduced in 1907 by Emily P. Bissell, a Delaware social worker, who was a volunteer for the predecessor of the Lung Association, the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. The name of the organization has been changed because TB has declined, but ironically, other lung diseases have increased.

Benevolent Americans of all ages and incomes share in the triumph of conquering disease through their voluntary contributions to the annual Christmas Seal Campaign. The American Lung Association...The Christmas Seal People...wages a relentless battle against cigarette smoking, the most common and needless cause of death in the U.S. today. The Lung Association is dedicated to helping children as well as adults with asthma to live more comfortably. The Christmas Seal People also provide health education for our country's young people in cooperation with the schools. Recently, they have added a new marijuana education program targeted at preteens.

Other Christmas Seal goals are cleaning and maintaining the air we all breathe and eliminating occupational lung hazards such as asbestos and other pollutants in the workplace. In addition, funds contributed to Christmas Seals are used for medical research.

For more information, call the American Lung Association of Middlesex County at 272-2866.

Animal Rescue League needs homes for pets

This holiday season, why not open your heart and your home to a homeless pet from the Animal Rescue League of Boston?

The League reminds prospective pet owners that animals are not toys, and if adopted should be brought into the family well before or after the hectic holidays, keeping in mind the tremendous responsibility and lifelong commitment that a pet brings.

If you have considered giving a pet as a gift, be sure that the pet will be wanted. The League provides gift certificates for this purpose, entitling the bearer to pick the pet of their choice or receive a full refund.

The Animal Rescue League of Boston's Adoption Center is located at the corner of Arlington and Tremont Streets and is open Monday through Saturday, 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Call 426-9170 for more information.

KNOWING WHERE TO GO FOR MEDICAL TREATMENT SHOULDN'T BE A PAINFUL DECISION.

Bad cough. HealthFirst.

Fever. HealthFirst.

Minor burn. HealthFirst.

Work physical. HealthFirst.

Sprained ankle. HealthFirst.

High blood pressure. Family Doctor.

Annual pap smear. Family Doctor.

Pains in muscles or joints. HealthFirst.

When you need prompt medical attention for any reason, you shouldn't have to worry about where to get it.

You shouldn't have to remember whether your doctor's office is open. Or wonder if your need is serious enough for the hospital.

What you do want is to feel better. And to know that the treatment you receive is the best available.

The HealthFirst Walk-in Medical Care Center in your community is staffed with highly qualified physicians, nurses and medical technicians, and is equipped to take care of most of the urgent care problems you might otherwise — and unnecessarily — take to the emergency room.

HealthFirst is actually part of the established health care delivery system which includes private practices, hospitals and specialists. It is associated with prestigious institutions like Beth Israel and University Hospital.

If you do need additional or more specialized care, we know where to refer you. Immediately, if necessary.

So, when something does go wrong, don't worry about where to go. Come to HealthFirst.

MOVIE REVIEWS

Rochelle Flynn

"2010" and "Beverly Hills Cop"

"2010," starring Roy Scheider, John Lithgow, Helen Mirren and Bob Balaban. Directed and written by Peter Hyams, based on Arthur C. Clark's novel. Rated PG (profanity).

Most everyone who has seen Stanley Kubrick's "2001, A Space

Odyssey," will have to agree that it is overblown enigma of a film. However, it is a movie with impact. Even those of us who are brave enough to admit that we did not quite understand it when it was released, have retained certain images, especially concerning HAL 9000, the homicidal computer.

Therefore, the much-awaited sequel, 2010 comes as a great disappointment to those science fiction fans longing for explanations to some of the unanswered questions in the original. 2010 has such a smarmy, self-righteous tone that even the most ardent sci-fi buff will feel dissatisfied.

Kubrick's film came out in 1968, but this story picks up nine years later, with Roy Scheider as a scientist who wants to head back to Jupiter, and the still orbiting Discovery spaceship, to see what went wrong. The Russians are planning the same trip, so a joint venture is sent into space, despite the fact that these two countries are preparing to do battle on earth in Latin America. Director/writer Peter Hyams does not miss a moment to point out that world peace is important or the "scientists will not have an earth to return to." This sentiment starts to wear thin after you've heard it three, four or five times.

We do eventually discover why HAL flipped his data bank in 2001 and we almost figure out what the great, looming monoliths are that have been orbiting Jupiter, but the answers are so glibly given, and Scheider figures everything out so quickly, that all those years of suspense go down the tubes in about five minutes.

Some of the special effects are noteworthy, and there are a few fine moments in this film, such as a particularly humorous scene in which John Lithgow hyperventilates while floating in space, due to his fear of heights. Lithgow gives one of the few performances which manages to rise above the stilted dialogue, but most of the film is lost in Hyams' messages and general lack of common sense.

"Beverly Hills Cop," starring Eddie Murphy, Judge Reinhold, and Lisa Eilbacher. Directed by Martin Brest. Produced by Don Simpson and Jerry Bruckheimer. Written by Daniel Petrie Jr. Rated R (profanity, violence).

A car chase followed by a shoot-out, followed by a joke, followed by a shoot-out, another shoot-out, one more joke, and yet another, great, blazing shoot-out.

There you have it — the plot to Beverly Hills Cop. Not much, is it? Well, what did you really expect from a movie starring Eddie Murphy, especially one with this title? Come on, you didn't really think you were getting anything intellectual, did you?

Now that everyone's expectations are set at just the right limit, it's all right to admit that this is a fun flick that will help you pass a couple of enjoyable hours. Just don't ponder too much that Murphy always escapes from the rainstorm of bullets fired at him, or that the entire Beverly Hills police force is made to look like slobbering fools. If you think about reality, the film loses some of its appeal.

Murphy does his usual con artist bit, but it's beginning to wear a little thin. He's not quite as cute, or believable, as he once was. If he doesn't start adding some depth to his performances, Murphy is going to be trapped in the Dudley Moore, I Always Play the Same Character rut.

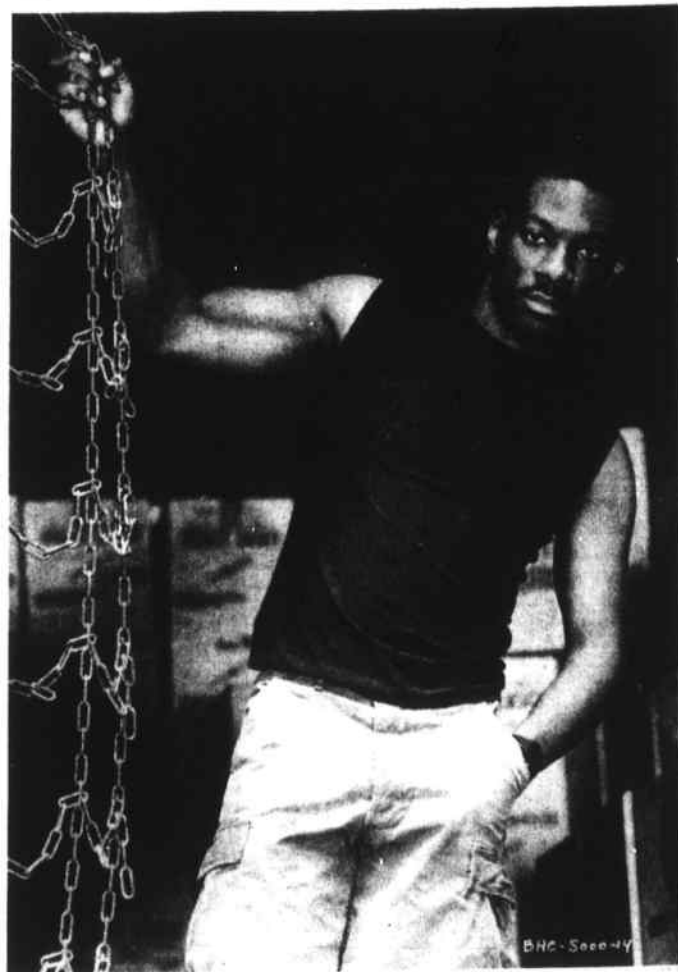

The one real surprise in this picture comes from Judge Reinhold, last seen as Phoebe Cates' big brother in "Fast Times at Ridgemont High." He plays the nicest, most naive detective ever to wear a badge, and almost steals the show from Murphy. This tall, gawky, young man has all the makings of a fine supporting actor, and has a real knack for being both adorable and believable.

The rest of Beverly Hills Cop is nothing more than a piece of fluff. It is sort of like eating cotton candy for dinner. Fun, but not very satisfying.

National Geographic Notes

Tests show that the lobster's taste system is a million times more sensitive than a human's, says National Geographic World. Lobsters use hundreds of thousands of hairlike taste sensors on their bodies and shells to detect the presence of prey dozens of feet away.

Some 40 years after the tragic Dust Bowl, the U.S. Soil Conservation Service finally began to determine systematically how much soil was eroding in the Unsettled States, says National Geographic. The SCS estimated that in 1977 the country "lost" about three billion tons of soil from plowed fields.

Eddie Murphy stars in "Beverly Hills Cop".

Christmas shopping with the kids

By J. MASTERS

(Editor's Note: Jeanne Masters is a Stoneham housewife who offers these many shopping tips to the readers of the Middlesex East Supplement.)

'Tis the season to be jolly... the Christmas season is officially upon us, shopping time is dwindling and stores are becoming more crowded. Christmas shopping with your children may not only be necessary due to a hectic schedule, it can be fun. Shopping together, you will be able to share your children's joy and excitement as they see Santa Claus, large brightly decorated Christmas trees, and numerous other holiday displays.

Here are some tips to make Christmas shopping with your children safe and enjoyable:

1. Do your thinking at home. Make a list of who you will be shopping for and what you plan to purchase for each person on the list.

2. Don't go shopping when either you or your children are upset for feeling poorly.

3. Stress to your children, that while shopping, they are to stay with you at all times. Never are they to stop and look at something without telling you.

4. Before leaving the house, talk to your children about the possibility of getting separated from you and what they should do if such an event did occur. A lost child should:

a. Go directly to the courtesy booth and tell the person there his/her name, your name, and that he/she is lost;

b. Never, solicit help from strangers other than store personnel and security guards;

c. Never leave the store. (A child who is too young to follow these instructions should always ride in your shopping cart.)

5. Never, under any circumstances, leave children alone in the car or any other place. Don't sit them down on a bench to rest or allow them to go to the bathroom alone.

6. Strictly enforce the "Don't Touch" rule not only because your children could break something expensive, but because it is potentially dangerous. Pulling on Christmas tree lights or ornaments could bring down the whole tree.

7. Once in the store, have your children tell you what they will do if they become lost. Show them where the courtesy booth is, point out security guards to them, and explain how they can tell store personnel from other people (i.e. blue smocks). Repeat this procedure every time you enter a different store.

8. Allow time for your children to look at things that interest them.

9. Don't become so involved with shopping that you neglect to keep an eye on your children (even one who is riding in the shopping cart). A rambunctious baby may attempt to climb out or accidentally fall out of his/her seat.

10. Take frequent breaks. Get something to drink, a bite to eat and/or visit the bathroom.

11. Know when to call it quits. Shopping an hour too long or going to one store too many can ruin an otherwise pleasant outing.

Cigarette smoking impairs healing

There is a direct association between cigarette smoking and the ability to heal following a facelift, according to Dr. Thomas D. Rees, a plastic surgeon affiliated with the Manhattan Eye, Ear, and Throat Hospital. Patients who smoke have twelve and a half times the chance of developing skin slough than patients who do not smoke, he indicated. Skin slough is the shedding of tissue which dies when a significant portion of blood supply fails to reach the skin and it results in delayed healing and more noticeable scar formation.

To confirm his long-held suspicion that smoking affects healing, Dr. Rees reviewed the records of 1186 consecutive patients who had undergone facelift surgery from 1975 through 1981. One-hundred twenty-one patients had evidence of skin slough. Dr. Rees was able to contact 91 of these patients, or 80 percent, admitted to smoking more than one pack of cigarettes a day. Eighteen patients, or 20 percent denied that they smoked. Dr. Rees thus determined that 74 percent of the skin sloughs observed were due to smoking.

"Because nicotine constricts blood vessels, its impact on healing is compounded in surgery where the blood supply to facial skin is already temporarily reduced," said Dr. Rees. "This finding may be of some comfort to surgeons whose patients experience skin slough, because the condition can be blamed — to some extent, at least — on the patient's smoking habits."

As a result of his findings, Dr. Rees now accepts for facelift surgery only those patients who agree to stop smoking ten days prior to surgery and abstain for three weeks after. "Because an appreciable part of every surgeon's practice consists of smokers," cautions Dr. Rees, "the implications of this study, in terms of patient selection and preoperative counseling, seem considerable."

Hints about winter tires

As winter approaches, many motorists begin to wonder about their tires. Are snow tires a good idea? Are radial tires effective in snow? What about so-called "all-season" radials?

The answers to these questions vary according to the type of car you drive, the tires currently on your car, and your budget, according to John R. Duddy, Manager of Automotive Services for AAA Massachusetts.

"For those drivers who want the best possible protection against winter-driving problems, radial snow tires are the answer," Duddy said. However, he pointed out that radial snow tires will result in lower gas mileage, make for a noisier ride on dry pavement, and should be used only during the winter months.

The so-called "all season" radials are a step above regular radial tires for winter driving, but they don't have the aggressive tread of a snow tire, nor are they designed for driving in deep snow.

"Radial tires themselves are at the next level of effectiveness for winter driving," Duddy said. "They're certainly not as good as radial snow tires or 'all-season' radials, but they are superior to regular bias-ply tires."

Duddy suggested that owners of front-wheel drive vehicles consult their owners' manual for the best advice on tires for that type of vehicle.

Bible sales are growing by leaps and bounds

Africa is up. The Americas, and Asia and the Pacific regions are, too.

That is the good news about Scripture distribution by the Bible Societies of 73 countries or four continents in the first half of 1984.

The three regions reported a combined total of over 186 million copies distributed, including Bibles, New Testaments, Portions and Selections, according to officials of the American Bible Society. That represents an 8.7 percent increase compared with the same period last year.

Along with their partners in Europe, from whom figures are expected shortly, these Bible Societies are the principal source of Scriptures for almost 80 percent of the world's people.

Most of the Societies look to ABS and its partners in the United Bible Societies for help in meeting their annual commitments to provide people with God's Word.

The first half of 1984 saw a 4.9 percent increase in Africa in comparison with 1983. Over 7 million Scriptures were shared throughout the continent.

The greatest gain was in Zimbabwe, which jumped from 238,442 copies to 883,314. Mr. Gaylord Kambarami, who is responsible for Bible work in Zimbabwe, attributes the rise to a period of "catching up." Scriptures are at last available after years of shortages. Many people are replacing the Scriptures they lost in the fighting during the past decade.

The country's Minister for Education, Mr. D. Mutumbuka, has declared, "The Bible has a respected place in our society. Its message of reconciliation is important to both young people and old at this challenging time in our national history."

Tanzania also saw a substantial rise, with 266 percent, as many more Christians became aware of the need for the Bible in their homes and churches.

Chad, Congo, Mozambique and Sierra Leone were other African countries with distribution growth of one hundred percent or more.

Of the countries of the Western Hemisphere, where a record 119 million Scriptures were distributed, the United States showed the largest total, with over 60 million copies of Bibles,

New Testaments and smaller portions of Scripture during the six-month period.

An unparalleled demand for special Scriptures at Easter, and for outreach Scriptures given to New Orleans World's Fair and Los Angeles Olympics visitors by Christian groups taking these opportunities for evangelism, helped boost the U.S. total by close to eight million copies compared with a year ago.

But Suriname, with only 354,000 people, topped the America's regional list with an increase of 271 percent.

This remarkable boost resulted from "an awakening among the religious leadership, especially the evangelicals," according to the Reverend Cedric Singh, who heads Bible Society work in Suriname.

Costa Rica and Haiti are the two other countries of this region which more than doubled their totals.

The Asia-Pacific region showed the most impressive expansion of the three regions, with a healthy 10 percent increase. The total was just short of 60 million copies for the six-month period. This does not include four major countries, such as Korea, which have yet to report.

In Burma, where Bible work is at the start of what may well be a period of significant expansion, thanks to church growth and an ever closer relationship with the Bible Society, distribution increased by 152 percent.

Pakistan reported over 6.2 million Scriptures, for a two-thirds increase. Mr. B.U. Khokhar, executive secretary for Bible Society work in Pakistan, puts this down to a "surging interest in what we are doing," as well as a deeper and keener interest on the part of church leaders of all denominations.

The American Bible Society shares God's Word through these overseas Bible Societies, and undergirds programs in most of them. ABS was founded in 1816 to provide Scriptures without doctrinal note or comment to all people everywhere in the world.

Aaron N. Zohn, Hank Rosenblatt, Les Boomhower and Jim Bartlett of ZBR Publications Inc., 3 Industrial Way, Wilmington were among the guests of honor on November 30 at a reception held in the Grand Ballroom of the Plaza Hotel in New York City. This event, sponsored by Inc. Magazine of Boston, announced the 1984 — nc. 500 — the fastest-growing, privately-held companies in the country. ZBR was ranked 395 on this list.

Representatives of the 1984 Inc 500 who were in attendance were presented with a diamond pin, "symbolizing the fact that these companies are the gems of the business world whose accomplishments are fueling our economic recovery," according to Bernard A. Goldhirsh, publisher of Inc. Goldhirsh addressed the group and commended them on their outstanding performance in achieving an average of 992 percent growth since 1979. This figure, remarked Inc. editor George Gendron, who also addressed the group, is all the more remarkable because substantial portions of it took place during the recent recession.

The guests also heard remarks by Bill Nourse, a small-businessman from Tennessee, who has emerged as a spokesman for small-business people throughout the country. Mr. Nourse was a delegate to the 1980 White House Conference on Small Business and has served on the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and on the Advisory Board to the Senate Small Business Committee. Last fall, he organized the American Independent Business Network.

Following the reception at the Plaza, the attendees were guests at a cocktail party at Visage, the night club which has become "the most coveted and eventful room in New York."

Wood stoves cause pollution

During the past decade, more than seven million Americans installed a device in their homes that is an important source of air pollution. What kind of device? a wood-burning stove.

Wood-burning stoves produce substantial amounts of a wide variety of air pollutants, and they can have a major impact on the quality of the air in communities where many wood-burning stoves are used, states the report Wood as Home Fuel: A Source of Air Pollution, published by the American Council on Science and Health (ACSH), an independent scientific organization.

In August of this year, Pollution from wood smoke became controversial when the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) elected not to regulate certain pollutants produced by the burning of wood, oil, and coal until additional scientific information about their health effects becomes available. Wood-burning stoves in homes account for 44 percent of these emissions, according to the EPA.

"Many people find it hard to take air pollution from wood-burning stoves seriously, perhaps because it's difficult to accept the idea that something as 'natural' as the burning of wood could damage the environment," said ACSH Executive Director Dr. Elizabeth M. Whelan.

The American Council on Science and Health (ACSH) is an independent, nonprofit consumer education organization promoting scientifically balanced evaluations of food, chemicals, the environment, and health.

To obtain a copy of Wood as Home Fuel: A Source of Air Pollution, send a self-addressed, stamped (37 cents postage), business size (No. 10) envelope to Wood as Fuel Report, ACSH, 47 Maple St. Summit, N.J. 07901.

Helping a child learn to like the nest egg in her stocking

By Debra Ann Hatten
Staff writer of The Christian Science Monitor

Boston
What will you give your child this Christmas? Imagine her, um, surprise when she finds a mutual-fund certificate tucked into her Christmas stocking among the barrettes, Barbie clothes, and fruit.

As you explain that she could buy a hundred Cabbage Patch dolls with the money her fund could yield someday — if she still wants them — your child may begin to show some enthusiasm for the colorless bits of paper.

And the day you turn to the stock quotes in the newspaper and suggest to her, "Let's see how your mutual fund is doing today," she may begin to understand simple investment principles through her own experience.

Gifts of mutual funds to your child, niece, nephew, or grandchild have several advantages over gifts of individual stocks, fund executives point out. Even a small amount invested in mutual funds will provide a child with a diversified portfolio, says Ronald T. Schroeder, president of New York-based J. & W. Seligman & Co. Your investment is spread over a wide variety of securities — and so is the risk.

And although mutual funds spread the risk, they also allow an investor to choose the desired level of risk, to zero in on the investment objective. Generally, the longer the period of investment, the more risk is acceptable, as higher-risk investments tend to yield higher returns than safer investments over the long term. "One thing a child has," says Reg Green, of the Washington-based Mutual Fund News Service, "is time on his side."

Yields of a high-risk "capital appreciation" fund can swing markedly up and down each year with the market. There is the possibility of losing or gaining a lot in any given year. For instance, the yield on Seligman's long-term fund was minus 19 percent in the year ending Sept. 30.

A baby or small child has the time for the gains to overbalance the losses for a greater net gain. Over the last 10 years, Seligman's capital appreciation fund has yielded 621 percent, compared with a Standard & Poor's 500 yield of 326 percent for the same period. The Seligman figure assumes reinvestment of capital gains and dividends, less all sales charges.

For the 16-year-old who needs his money in a few years for college, Mr. Schroeder suggests the common stock (middle risk) fund, which yields both growth and income, or the safer money market fund, which yields only income.

Many funds, such as those listed above, are of part of a "family of funds," which permit one to switch the child's assets fairly easily from a capital appreciation growth fund (higher risk) to a cash management income fund (lower risk) within the group.

For their capital appreciation growth fund, Seligman seeks out stocks of small, rapidly growing companies or of established companies making significant progress. The lower-risk cash management income fund invests in CDs, commercial paper, or government securities.

Catherine Taylor, an attorney in the tax department at Minneapolis-based IDS/American Express, suggests giving a child income-yielding mutual funds instead of an allowance. "Then when the [monthly] check comes, that's their money," She notes that the monthly allowance can help kids learn how to budget.

And that "allowance" will be coming out of funds that are taxed at the child's lower tax rate. As with any other income-yielding gift, mutual funds can be used to transfer income from your higher rate, saving up to 50 percent in taxes on income that would ordinarily be given to a child or used for his expenses.

For example, if you gave $2,000 annually to a child who had no other income, and he received a 10 percent yield on the investment, at the end of 10 years he would have $35,062. If you yourself had kept and invested these funds (assuming a 30 percent tax bracket), your after-tax total would have been $29,567, more than a $5,000 difference.

So maybe she didn't get a Cabbage Patch Kid this year, but your gift of mutual fund shares will be providing for her future long after the doll is forgotten.

Facts about anorexia nervosa

She's young and bright and pretty and successful. She exercises faithfully and watches what she eats very carefully. Is she a paragon of virtue or one of a growing number of American females who is suffering from anorexia nervosa? Anorexia is an eating disorder that causes a person to starve herself in the midst of plenty. It is an illness that victims go to great lengths to hide. If left untreated, anorexia could kill that lovely young woman.

The National Institutes of Health has recently published a booklet entitled Facts About Anorexia Nervosa that provides important information about this illness, its symptoms, and treatments. It also discusses bulimia, a related eating disorder where people "food binge" and then purge themselves by vomiting or using laxatives or diuretics. If you are concerned about your own eating habits or someone else's, you may order Facts About Anorexia Nervosa by sending 50 cents to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 425M, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Almost all those who suffer from anorexia nervosa are teenage girls. They typically come from white, middle to upper class families that place heavy emphasis on high achievement, perfection, eating patterns, and physical appearance. Researchers agree that the number of people affected is increasing. Recent estimates suggest that one out of every 200 American girls between the ages of 12 and 18 will suffer from anorexia to some degree. Occasionally anorexia will involve adolescent boys or older women.

For the young woman with anorexia, what may start out as a diet to lose five or ten pounds becomes an obsession. She becomes preoccupied with food and calorie-counting. She refuses to eat, denies being hungry, or claims to be full after eating just a few bites.

Eventually, she will experience a large weight loss. It is not uncommon for the anorectic to lose half of her normal body weight.

This self-starvation takes a tremendous toll. As a result of her altered metabolism, the anorectic female could cease to menstruate and lose interest in sex. She may also show psychological symptoms such as social withdrawal, obsessive-compulsive behavior, and depression before and during the illness. And, almost always, the anorectic has a distorted view of her body, believing she's "fat" when in reality she's emaciated. In extreme cases, this self-starvation can lead to death.

Many people recover from anorexia nervosa with treatment. Usually treatment includes nutritional therapy, individual psychotherapy, and family counseling. No matter what therapy is chosen, the first concern is always to get the anorectic to eat and gain weight. But immediate success does not guarantee a permanent cure. Sometimes, even after hospital treatment and return to normal weight, the anorectic may suffer relapses. Experts recommend follow-up therapy lasting three to five years if the patient is to be completely cured.

For more information, including a list of self-help groups for patients, parents, spouses, and siblings, send 50 cents for a copy of Facts About Anorexia Nervosa. At the same time, you will also receive a free copy of the Consumer Information Catalog. Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the U.S. General Services Administration, the Catalog lists more than 200 other free and moderately priced federal booklets on a variety of topics ranging from food to budgets to housing.

Entertain on a budget

'Tis the season to entertain your friends. Here's how to become a party impresario on any budget.

It's time for harvest feasts, preparations for holidays to come — and worry about the wherewithal for fall and winter hospitality. But with a little bit of planning and lots of imagination, you can swing your most ambitious plans without investing a fortune in equipment and provisions, according to Nancy C. Stutzman, Extension Home Economist, Middlesex County Extension Service, 105 Everett Street, Concord, Ma. 01742.

Do you live in an apartment with limited space for cooking and storage, for example? Or you don't have enough dinnerware to feed the crowd? You can rent whatever you need by the day — linens, silverware, dishes, tables and chairs kitchen appliances.

If you're short on time or cooking talent, you can rent a caterer or bring in take-out food. Or invite each guest to bring a prepared dish. Or set up a no-cooking spread — an ice cream parlor or salad bar at home.

RENTALS PLUS DO-IT-YOURSELF

The best bargains are the chores you do yourself. To decide what you can and can't do, block out a countdown — invitations, shopping and food preparation, serving needs and entertainment. Calculate how much time and money you can invest.

Then check "Rentals" and "Party Suppliers" in the Yellow Pages to find the equipment you'll need. Look up "Caterers" for food service.

Comparison shop. Call several different suppliers to question each closest to your taste in food or equipment.

RENTING APPLIANCES

Smaller appliances are for rent: a chafing dish for example, or a 100-cup coffee percolator, a large food warmer, and a gas griddle with butane — to be used outdoors or in a well-ventilated area, almost any portable cooking equipment can be rented, including charcoal grills or field stoves with canned heat. For a microwave oven, look up "Rentals-Electrical."

It takes just one quick phone call to arrange a rental, but it's wise to allow at least a week's notice to be sure you'll get what you need. Delivery and pickup are usually free with a minimum order, but be sure to check this in advance.

RENTING A CATERER

This can be a serious financial step, so know your party scheme before you telephone. If you're interested in a low-cost buffet, check your local supermarket or food specialty store for an assortment of inexpensive choices.

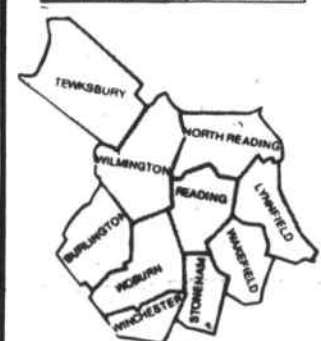

If you do hire one, you can lower the bill by supply one or two courses yourself — a vegetable-dip appetizer, perhaps, or an easy dessert. You might even prepare a main dish you're famous for, and let the caterer handle the rest.

If you want a celebration cake as dessert, you face a three-layer price system. The caterer's price is usually the highest and the local baker's next. But for a small gathering, plain store-bought layers, which you cover with whipped cream or frosting and your message, are the lowest.

Santa arrives Friday at Stoneham mansion

By JIM ROUILLARD

"And well our Christian sires
of old
Loved when the year its course had rolled

And brought blithe Christmas back again,
With all his hospitable train."

PERCHED HIGH ON A WINDOW in the drawing-room at Whip Hill Manor, Angela, 4, and Alicia Pastorello, 13, of Stoneham, await the coming of Christmas and the imminent arrival of Saint Nick himself, who will appear for a three-day stint at the 35-acre Whip Hill estate, off Perkins Street in Stoneham, starting this coming Friday evening, Dec. 21, at 6 p.m.

This year, because of extra-careful, advance planning, Santa Claus has let it be known that he will arrive somewhat early in the Middlesex East area — and stay for three days at a former millionaire's estate.

And, thanks to the dual miracles of modern science (cloning — which provides the appearance of multiple Santa Clauses — though there's only one of the genuine article) and aviation, the man with many aliases: Saint Nicholas, Kris Kringle, and Father Christmas, has announced that this pre-Christmas stop will enable him to receive multitudes of children and lend a willing ear to their wishes while his local assistants dispense gallons of hot chocolate, refreshments, and buckets of bird seed.

The scene for the affair will be Whip Hill Manor off Perkins Street in Stoneham (on the right if you're travelling south from Franklin Street; on the left if you drive north from the Fellsway — but keep a sharp eye: the entrance is easy to miss.)

Santa will arrive this coming Friday, Dec. 21 at 6 p.m. — by helicopter, according to sources, since Rudolph has a slight cold which dims his bright nose — and his colleagues, Dasher, Dancer, Prancer, (and especially the lazy Vixen) and the other reindeer wait to rest up for the huge, upcoming effort of Christmas Eve.

The three-day open house at Whip Hill Manor will also give you and your family the chance to tour the elegant manor house and 35-acre estate — which are themselves substantial gifts to the Town of Stoneham.

The setting for the three-day affair could almost have been transported across the Atlantic — from a Jane Austen novel or earlier, in the reign of "Good Queen Anne," or even that of Queen Elizabeth I — for the manor house (though built in the 1930s) is in late Tudor-style, with ornamental half-timbers, terracotta facing and a brick courtyard, and was given to the town by an Englishwoman.

Whip Hill Manor was a bequest to the town for conservation purposes, by the late Stoneham resident Angie Crockett, who died in 1973. The widow of a successful ocean shipper, Mrs. Crockett also gave $200,000 for construction of the present Stoneham Police Station, completed in 1973.

She also had an estate in the Bahamas and a townhouse in London, according to long-time Stoneham resident Mrs. Glendola Mitchell of Emery Court, who remembers meeting the governor of Nassau at the Crockett mansion, some years ago.

And Christmastide is a fitting time to make use of Whip Hill Manor, in memory of its donor, according to Eileen McDonough of Stoneham, one of the six committee members to conceive and organize this year's Winter Wonderland celebration at Whip Hill.

The idea of holding an annual Winter Wonderland at Whip Hill was the brainchild, last year, of a small committee of Stoneham residents, Mrs. McDonough said, whose members, by large measures of hook and wheedle, energy, determination and ingenuity, pulled together a program involving many local volunteers to establish the first Winter Wonderland at Christmastime 1983, which drew an estimated 1,000 persons to the three-day affair.

This year's festivities will increase in scope, according to Mrs. McDonough and Committee Chairman Walter Skerry, who said that they hope even more people will take advantage of the open to tour the landscaped estate before or after a leisurely visit with Santa, feed the birds, and listen to Christmas songs by Stoneham's Spartan Chorale.

The purpose of the affair, Skerry said, is to help bring people together in a festive Christmas setting — and to make known to more people the existence, availability and sheer beauty of Whip Hill Manor. Of the 1,000 persons who visited the estate during Winter Wonderland, 1983, Mrs. McDonough said, only about one-tenth had ever visited the place before.

And what a place: week-end resident caretaker Dennis Rochelieu regaled us last Saturday with anecdotes of the manor house and its owner. The house includes some 14-plus rooms, brick courtyard, greenhouse and small wine cellar.

Mrs. Crockett, who "took no spirits herself," according to Glendola Mitchell, did, of course provide wine and cocktails for those of her guests who imbibed — but she always had a special amber glass for herself, filled with iced tea during cocktail hour, Mrs. Crockett's homes in Stoneham, London and the hour, Mrs. Mitchell said. Bahamas, she and her husband also had a villa on the French Riviera, and two yachts, including "The Queen Mab."

When the brick courtyard was being built, Dennis said, the owners kept a blacksmith on the

"I Learned More Than I Thought I Would." ATI FACULTY "Go(es) All Out For The Student."

Recently we got these comments from several recent graduates of ATI's programs.

Chris McHugh (Electronics writes:

"I enrolled in ATI's Computer Electronics program to learn about electronics and their practical application. (I) have received a very good understanding of electronics and computer internals.

"In addition, the services offered by ATI are excellent: (I) learned a lot about job finding, interviewing and nailing down concrete leads. (I) am going to miss ATI and will always give the school a good recommendation."

Gil Perito (Electronics writes:

"I learned more than I thought I would, and I wish I could have had more time. Russo (the teacher), has a great way to relate to the students, which helps us to understand better. I love it (ATI Services). They go all out for the students and show you how to have more confidence in yourself."

Finally, Jim Stallings (Refrigeration & Air Conditioning) writes:

"I got a lot out of this course. I feel good about what I learned here and if I had to do it again I would."

ATI CARES

Do these comments sound exaggerated? Let me assure you they are not. Just look at the facts:

1. You will be trained by a caring, involved, highly skilled instructor.
2. You can choose to attend either full time day (7 months) or part time evening classes (12 months).
3. ATI is well equipped and conveniently located at the intersections of Rt. 93 and Rt. 128.
4. The training emphasizes Hands-On so you learn by doing.
5. ATI is accredited by NATTS and is approved for Vets' training. If you are eligible you can receive financial aid.

6. You can rely on ATI's years of experience and years of prior local placements, to aid in your job search.
7. Limited Class Size to make sure you can get all the personal attention you need.

Woodchips

By ANTHONY MANCONI

William Spence, the original owner of Spence Farm in Woburn, asked a young man looking for a job, "What can you do?" The muscular lad with the unruly crop of brown hair looked straight at Mr. Spence and said, "I can do everything that has to be done on a farm and I sleep when the wind blows."

This answer was confusing to say the least because as anyone who owns or works on a farm knows, there is hardly a time when anyone catches up with the work so he can enjoy the luxury of a few hours of sleep. The young man was hired because he looked strong, aggressive and industrious.

Time proved that William Spence was indeed a good judge of character for the hired hand was a good worker performing his chores and other work without being told.

One night, Mr. Spence awoke from a sound sleep — due to a raging wind and rain storm that shook the windows and ruffled the roof shingles. No amount of calling, prodding or shaking could wake the young man so he could get up and see if the horses and livestock were in the barn and okay.

Putting on his storm gear, William went out in the raging storm, with its gale winds and torrential rain, and upon entering the barn found everything in perfect order. He then stopped and recalled the lad's answer to his question of two months ago: "I do everything that has to be done and I sleep when the wind blows."

The farm is now owned by Bud and Robert Spence, assisted by Jackie Young, manager of the farm stand, and her father, Sherman Graham, and many others who do things when they should be done. We (most of us) do the same thing — put up storm windows before the Montreal Express arrives, cover tender plants before the frost, and prepare for our retirement many years before we leave our jobs.

My cousin, Angelo Quaganti of Wakefield, told me that he finds that the worst thing about retirement is "drinking coffee on my own time."

My wife Kathy said to me this morning, "I had a dream last night that you bought me a beautiful mink coat." I looked at her, smiled, and said, "Kathy, dear, in your next dream, wear it in good health."

My neighbor, Paul Rao, is from the old school but he's learning pretty fast that many things have changed since Hannah was a pup. Paul's wife Mary has taken courses in "assertiveness." Paul got his first lesson last night, when, from his easy chair, he ordered his wife to "draw his bath." Mary came back 10 minutes later with a pencil and paper and sat down and drew an exact sketch of the bath tub.

Folks, have you ever heard the expression, "I didn't fall off the turnip truck?" Well, Bill Boivin of Winchester says that whenever he makes a smart play in the whist game we play every weekend.

New England freestyle figure skating champion, Nancy Kerrigan, was the guest of the Stoneham Rotary Club. Present with Nancy was her coach, Theresa Martin. Richard Coughlin is the president of the Rotarians who honored Nancy, a sophomore at Stoneham High and the daughter of Brenda and Dan Kerrigan.

Tom Burke, of Ostuni's in Burlington, is a history scholar. He told me this interesting story: Balboa, on his journey westward, came upon a great big body of water — so he immediately radioed King Ferdinand of Spain and told him of his discovery. The king radioed back, "Where is it — be more 'specific'!" "That's it! That's it!" exclaimed Balboa, "It's the 'Specific' Ocean!"

It's beginning to look a lot like Christmas, every where I go. Many of my neighbors are trying to outdo each other with their Christmas lights — along the roof, on the bushes, and along the fences. There's nothing wrong with that, as long as the same spirit is in their hearts — trying to outdo their neighbors in giving to the less fortunate people among us.

I remember when we would gather around the tree on Christmas Eve and open our presents. After getting underwear, shirts and socks year after year, I opened a carton and there it was — what I always wanted — parts to be assembled to form a four-wheel cart. Only something was wrong — there were only three wheels. I started to cry and my mother put her arms around me, trying to stop the torrent of tears.

My Aunt Maria didn't help matters any by saying, "I always knew you were a loser." (She still thinks I am.) Honest, folks, I love her, because she makes me so mad that I want to succeed. "A kite does not rise with the wind but against it."

Anyway, about the cart — I made a scooter with two wheels and a bird bath with the cart body — it isn't what you've got that counts but what you do with what you've got.

I must go to St. Margaret's Church in Burlington to hear the beautiful choir that many have told me about; and also to meet Fr. John Crispo, and hear his inspiring sermons.

A few of the many I love: my best wishes to Sandy of Pine-wood Garden; Terry O'Leary of S.S. Pierce; Michael Curran of Woburn; Fr. Richard Brady of St. Barbara's in Woburn; Michele Nottebart of Stoneham; Connie Johnson of Honeycomb in Wakefield; Dan Holland of Winchester; Saul Ziner of Lynnfield; Larz Neilson of Wilmington; Suzie Arlen of Tewksbury; Nicole Higden of Burlington; Bill Dwyer of Wakefield; Warren Church of North Reading; Tony Angelucci of Russell Farms; and "YOU" who are reading this now.

"CHRISTMAS"

There is no room, I'm sorry sir, but you may use that stable there.

The straw and hay and manger sir, are warmer than this midnight air.

Joseph thanked him then slowly turned and with Mary walked in the barn's dim light.

As cows and lambs all soon learned, a Savior would be born that night.

This happened oh, so long ago, as wisemen traveled night and day.

To bring their gifts so all would know, to come and kneel, adore and pray.

What will your Christmas answer be? "I have no room, as you can see."

Or will you say, on bended knee, "Oh infant Jesus, abide in me."

premises, whose handsome handforged door hinges, bolts and iron fretwork are evident throughout the brick courtyard if your eye is keen and attentive.

The decoration and beauty of the house and grounds have been maintained and enhanced by resident week-long caretaker Jim Previdi, whose botanical skills have contributed much to the health of both the outdoor and indoor plants: Christmas cactus, and his own personal plants in the small conservatory: an orange-tree, ficus (which means weeping fig, Jim said) and a small hibiscus bearing several buds and a single, brilliant red trumpet-shaped blossom.

Looking out, towards the Middlesex Fells and Whip Hill itself, our attention was soon caught by the cardinals and tufted titmouse, blue jays and chickadees who darted about by the sundial set among the rhododendrons and winter-denuded dogwoods.

For Winter Wonderland, the house decorations and Christmas trees have been provided each year by the Stoneham Garden Club and the Stoneham Arts and Crafts Club, both well-known for their energy and the beauty and ingenuity of their arrangements — though little had yet been done at the time of our small touring-party last weekend.

But though we had to settle for just a few preliminary decorations, an un-horsed sleigh and the welcome of a hearty, stuffed (toy) raccoon — the aura of the estate was thrilling, with its evocations of its earlier owners: a tattered 1858 volume of Burke's English Peerage, the hand-wrought, small-paned, leaded glass windows, stained-glass, hand-carved wainscoting in the dining-room and leather, bolt-studded door with an oval window which communicates with the kitchen.

This coming weekend, you'll be able to see all of this and more, in bright and festive seasonal decor, with welcome and greetings from Santa and your other hosts.

Times for open house will be: Friday, Dec. 21, 6 to 9 p.m.; Saturday, Dec. 22, 1 to 5 p.m.; and Sunday, Dec. 23, 1 to 8 p.m.

Don't wonder whether you can find the time — make it — and you won't regret your decision to start this Christmas season, with a touch of the beauty, serenity and welcome of Whip Hill Manor.

Hypertension affects children, too

Contrary to popular belief, high blood pressure is not just an "old persons' disease." Today, physicians are aware that high blood pressure, or hypertension, has its roots in childhood. By 18 years of age, many Americans show signs of already having developed the condition.

Because this condition can have serious cumulative effects, including heart attack, kidney disease, stroke, and eye disease, many physicians believe that closer attention to childhood hypertension is warranted. At a new hypertension clinic at The Children's Hospital in Boston, pediatric heart and kidney specialists are learning to identify hypertension-prone children at an early age, refine treatments for their condition, and help them discover healthier lifestyles.

Not too long ago, hypertension in children was rarely recognized or adequately treated. Julie Ingelfinger, M.D., associate in Medicine and Nephrology and director of the newly established clinic, says, "Our knowledge is growing rapidly. Recognition is becoming easier now because we have more accurate blood pressure measuring techniques; diagnosis is facilitated by noninvasive technology; and therapy is enhanced by new medications or by non-pharmacologic treatments."

When children with suspected hypertension are referred to the clinic, says Ingelfinger, a variety of methods are used for diagnosis. Analyses of blood and urine, often coupled with ultrasound of the kidneys and other organs, can help pinpoint the severity of the disease and its cause. A prescribed program of diet change, weight education, exercise, behavioral counseling, and medication then helps the child keep his or her hypertension under control so that it does not threaten future health.

"Hypertension is defined as a condition in which the blood pumped by the heart exerts too great a force on the vessels that contain it," Ingelfinger says. Like adults, children may suffer from primary hypertension, a disease in itself, or secondary hypertension, caused by underlying illnesses such as kidney disease. Primary hypertension is chronic: it can never be cured, but it can be controlled by weight maintenance, reducing salt intake, exercising, medication, and learning to relax. Because symptoms are often absent, doctors find that initial detection is frequently a matter of investigating a questionable blood pressure reading obtained during a child's routine checkup.

"Children as young as eight years old have been referred to the clinic with suspected primary hypertension," says Ingelfinger. "Although physicians do not know exactly what causes primary hypertension, we do know that it represents some degree of abnormality in the body's circulatory system. In our studies we have observed that primary hypertension seems to 'run in families,' which supports the theory that the disease is related to genetic or chemical characteristics."

A large proportion of childhood secondary hypertension is caused by kidney disease; other causes include glandular problems, narrowing of the blood vessels, and diseases such as leukemia. In addition, the condition can be caused by accidents such as poisonings and burns. Because secondary hypertension often results from a serious disease that manifests itself soon after birth, it is the more common form of the condition in children under age 10. Treatment involves controlling the underlying disease, after which most cases of secondary hypertension subside. "At the clinic, 40 percent of the children tested turn out to have an underlying disease causing their hypertension," comments Ingelfinger. "Often they must then enter hospital for treatment."

The hypertension clinic at Children's Hospital is open from 9 a.m. to noon on the first and third Fridays of each month. Patients must be referred by their physicians in order to be evaluated or treated. To refer patients to the clinic, physicians may call 735-6128.

Nursing Home Outreach Program

Nursing home residents are one of the most isolated groups in society. For many residents, their first day of living in a nursing home is their last day of real contact with the community. The major goal of the Nursing Home Outreach Program is to re-establish a community link for nursing home residents, thereby improving their quality of life.

Nursing home residents cannot be shown that the community cares unless the community does care. And that is a volunteer program has been developed. Regular visits by volunteers help in establishing close, trust-based relationships with residents.

The following quotation best illustrates how a volunteer feels:

"Nothing but what you volunteer has the essence of life. These are the things you do because you want to do them. They are done with the free spirit of the adventurer. They are the inviting bypaths of life into which you go for discovery, to get off the dusty roads of mere duty into cool meadows and shadowed glades where the scene is changed and the air seems full of the tonic of freedom." — Author Unknown.

Nursing Home Outreach provides training for new volunteers in cooperation with the Department of Elder Affairs. The Nursing Home Outreach Program is administered by Jewish Family and Children's Service and funded by Mystic Valley Elder Service. This is a non-sectarian program, and all services to nursing home residents are free.

For more information, please contact Andrea Rubin, Program Director, Nursing Home Outreach, 6 Pleasant Street, Malden, Mass. 02148 or call 322-4766.

Coming Attractions

By William Pacino

On Christmas Eve from 7 PM to 10 PM anyone who'd like to relive those thrilling days of yesterday can "tune in again" when Van Christo Radio Theatre presents its annual Yuletide Special on Radio Station WBUR (90.9 FM). However, departing from its long-time tradition of airing Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" starring Lionel Barrymore as the last segment of the 3-hour holiday special, this year it will be presented as the first offering so youngsters of all ages will be able to listen. All listeners over the age of "39" will remember that Lionel Barrymore first played the role of the crotchety Ebenezer Scrooge on December 25, 1934. With almost clockwork regularity, he faithfully recreated the very essence of that "grasping, clutching, conniving, covetous old sinner, Ebenezer Scrooge", until his death on November 15, 1954. Also included in this year's actual programs rebroadcast exactly as they were aired on radio some 30 years ago. Each show has a Christmas theme to enhance the holiday mood.

Money Fun

The Federal Reserve Bank of Boston will host a free program for families on Thursday, December 27 from 9:30 to 11:30 AM. The program will feature a puppet show on money for the younger children, a slide show on real and counterfeit currency for the older children, a tour of the Bank's Money Department, a view of Boston from the Bank's 31st floor, and light refreshments.

Children of all ages are welcome, but each child must be accompanied by an adult. Participants must register in advance as space is limited.

For reservations, call 973-3452, Monday through Friday, 9 AM to 4 PM.

Babysitter Referral

If you have been looking for a babysitter but have not known where to look, try the Health Education Department at New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham.

Effective January 1, 1985, area residents can receive the names and telephone numbers of three or more teenagers who have been certified in NEMH's Babysitters Class. Parents of the teenager are also involved and must approve any babysitting arrangements made through this service. There is a one-time $10 fee to use the Referral Service.

For information about this service, call NEMH at 665-1740; ext. 426.

Cheerleading & Drill Team

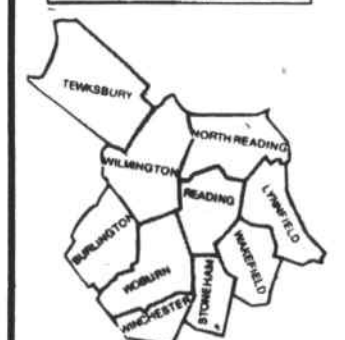

United Cheerleading Camp will sponsor four major Cheerleading and Dance/Drill Team Competitions in 1985. All grammar, high school, and college age level teams from schools, clubs, and organizations are welcome to enter these professionally judged contests. Jan. 13 - East Stroudsburg State College, PA. Jan. 27 - Iona College, New Rochelle, NY. February 3 - Fordham University, Bronx, NY. March 3 - Hackensack, NJ.

For further information and registration forms, call 201-573-8948 or write: Judi Murphy, 114 Spring Valley Road, Park Ridge, NJ. 07656.

From Scrooge to cheerleading competitions, from the Fed to babysitting, COMING ATTRACTIONS has a little something for everyone in this holiday season. But we are not like Old St. Nick, we do not see everything. If you know of an event of interest to all that we have overlooked, write, care of this local newspaper, and fill us in. Merry Christmas to all!
